Canada Not Yet 'Sovereign'

House Leaders Rap Constitutional Ties

Should Change BNA Act Here

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today it is inconsistent with Canada's sovereignty that Parliament cannot amend the constitution.

He told the Commons that Canada is the only old member of the Commonwealth that must seek an amendment to its Constitution from the British Parliament.

"It isn't because the British Parliament is anxious to retain this power," he said. "It is because Canadians have been unable to agree on a method of amendment that would be generally acceptable."

Mr. Diefenbaker introduced a resolution asking the British Parliament to amend the British North America Act of 1867, requiring all County, District, and Superior Court judges to retire at 75. Supreme Court of Canada judges have had a fixed retirement age since 1927.

BOTH MUST PASS

The prime minister said the new provision, if passed by the Canadian and British Parliaments, would come into effect March 1, 1961.

"It is a political paradox and inconsistent with Canada's status that we should be required to obtain amendments to our Constitution by an address to the Queen that she will cause amendments to be laid before the Mother of Parliaments at Westminster," he said.

"Up to the present it has been found difficult, if not impossible, to secure the agreements of the provinces to any method of amendment."

All provinces have agreed to the new retirement age for judges, he added.

Opposition leader Pearson said that until the federal and provincial governments reach agreement on amending the constitution Canadians can't really talk about complete sovereignty and independence.

EMBARRASSING PROBLEM

The inability of Canada to solve this problem was becoming more and more an embarrassment to the British Parliament.

The Liberal leader said he doesn't object to a retirement age of 75 for judges but that he does object to such retirement for judges already appointed for life.

This was a breach of contract between the judges and the state.

Mr. Pearson recalled that former Conservative leader R. B. Bennett had objected to similar Liberal legislation in 1927 applying to judges of the Supreme and Exchequer courts. Later, an annuity had been provided so these judges would not suffer financially.

Mr. Pearson said that in 1933 the Conservative government tried to force retirement of Superior Court judges at 75 by reducing their salaries at that age. The measure had been killed by the Senate.

'SERIOUS DOUBTS' are expressed by evangelist Billy Graham as to whether Americans have the "moral and spiritual capability to match the challenge of a dedicated, disciplined communism." Graham was addressing a group of U.S. military leaders Monday.

Eisenhower greeted by President Garcia.

FILIPINOS WILD WITH JOY

Ike's Welcome Greatest Yet

MANILA (AP)—A joyous, singing, almost uncontrollable mass of Filipinos nearly overwhelmed Eisenhower with an ecstatic welcome today.

This land, to which the United States granted independence only 14 years ago, gave Eisenhower perhaps the greatest tribute he has ever received overseas. An estimated 1,500,000 or more people roared their acclaim along a flag-decked route, showering Eisenhower with a near blizzard of pastel confetti and even paper boxes.

Sometimes surging out of control, the tide of humanity slowed his parade to a walk as they jammed to within inches of the open car. He rode beside Philippine President Carlos P. Garcia from the airport to downtown Manila, 10 miles.

Acrid fumes from the slow-moving cars brought some tears to Eisenhower's eyes. Filipino and American security agents strained to clear a path in humid 85-degree heat. One over-enthusiastic well-wisher tried to climb on the hood of the automobile before police hustled him away.

The Philippine press secretary, Jose P. Nable, said police and military officials set the number of welcome at 3,000,000-3,500,000 in Manila alone.

Former Citizen—Now Peacemaker

From the moment Eisenhower landed at Manila airport for the first stop of his Asian tour, the Filipinos hailed him as a former resident who had returned as the peace-seeking leader of the free world.

The mass of men, women and children who lined the 10-mile route from the airport frequently pressed to within inches of the open presidential automobile, sometimes stopping it.

The scheduled hour-long procession stretched into a triumphal parade of one hour and 40 minutes. Eisenhower repeatedly acknowledged the acclaim with arms outstretched in the humid weather.

Perspiring freely, Eisenhower looked tired but smiled broadly as he was escorted by the steps of the presidential palace before retiring to his quarters.

Meanwhile it was reported in Tokyo troops of Japan's new army may be called on to back up police in case violence flares during Eisenhower's visit next week.

A defence board spokesman said a 2,000-man regiment has been placed on alert and a division of 15,000 stationed in Tokyo could be rushed up if the situation warrants.

Violence accompanied raids by Tokyo police Monday on union and student headquarters in search of leaders.

IDENTIFIED

'Blonde Widow' In Trunk

TORONTO (CP)—A body found crammed into a trunk last week in a Newfoundland railway express office was identified today as that of Mrs. Marjorie E. Scott, blonde widow of a former convict who died in 1958 at New Westminster, B.C.

Police at Kingston, Ont., said the 37-year-old woman had been married to Clement Scott, the former convict, and had been arrested twice herself in Kingston. She had been released each time on probation.

For some time, they said, she had been living intermittently in Toronto and Kingston with another criminal with a long record.

The body of Mrs. Scott, described as a shapely blonde waitress originally from Nanaimo, Ont., was found in the trunk of an Argentina, Nfld., by an express agent.

NO CLUE SO FAR

The trunk had been sent C.O.D. from Toronto. So far, police have no line on the shipper.

The woman was identified only today.

Toronto police said the woman was identified by matching the fingerprints from the partially decomposed body with those on RCMP files in Ottawa. She had been sentenced at Whiteby in 1944 to three months in reformatory for theft.

Born in Nanaimo, near Kingston, she was the former Marjorie Sagar. She came to Toronto from Windsor to work as a waitress, it was reported.

The trunk, shipped from Toronto last month, was opened last Tuesday by Tom Donovan, a CNR express agent. It was sent collect to a Mrs. Williams in Argentina, a United States naval base, about 85 miles west of St. John's.

Cause of the death has not yet been determined, although speculation is she may have died either of poisoning or asphyxiation.

LOOK FOR RELATIVES

The Metropolitan Toronto homicide squad and Ontario Provincial Police have started a search for relatives or others who might give further information on the woman's background.

Police said today a seaman may also be involved in the slaying, which until now has provided scant clues for investigators. A towel, found among 60 articles of clothing and bedding in the trunk, proved to be of navy-issue type. The name "Huntley," printed on the towel, is believed that of a shipping company which ran supplies to United States military bases, including Argentina, during the Second World War.

ANGRY WALKER 'READY TO GO'

BRAZIL, Ind. (UPI)—British hiker Dr. Barbara Moore convalesced in a Brazil hospital today, her trouble-plagued transcontinental trek stopped when she was hit by a car Monday while walking on the wrong side of the road.

Angry over the accident, the 56-year-old vegetarian said she hoped to be out of the hospital and back on her way soon.

Doctors said she seemed to be suffering more from sunburn than from the auto accident. She was treated for minor abrasions on her right arm and left ankle.

OFF WEDNESDAY

Capacity Loads Seen On Ferries

"Standing-room-only" is expected Wednesday when the new government ferries open public service between Vancouver Island and the Mainland.

The ships Sidney and Tsawwassen will simultaneously inaugurate the toll authority service at 7 a.m.

"There has been a tremendous response from the public," ferry manager Monty Aldous said today.

Approach roads and the terminal buildings at Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen, the two points linked, are not ready, but this won't impede the service, said Mr. Aldous.

BUS AT 6:10

First "Royal Victorian" bus for Swartz Bay will leave the Victoria depot of Vancouver Island Coach Lines at 6:10 a.m. "The phone has hardly stopped ringing," said Mr. Aldous, since last Thursday's pre-inaugural run of the Sidney for newsmen and tourist officials.

The Swartz Bay cutoff from the highway at Sandown Park racetrack is not fully paved. "It should be finished within a week—barring bad weather," Highways Minister Gagliardi reported.

The terminal buildings will be ready in about two weeks. In the meantime ticket offices will be set up in trailers.

Fares for the new ferry are $2 per person and $5 per car each way.

There will be eight trips leaving each terminus daily, starting at 7 a.m.

LOCH NESS MONSTER ON TV

LONDON (Reuters).—A movie claim- ing to show the elusive and legendary monster in Scotland's gloomy Loch Ness was screened on British television Monday night.

The 40-second film showed a blurred ob- ject which was at first stationary, but then moved away lazily—swerving to the right and left.

Finally the shape picked up speed and moved down the loch at about 10 miles an hour, throwing out a white foaming wake.

Aeronautical engineer Timothy Dins- dale, 36, is positive that he saw and photo- graphed the mysterious creature which hundreds claim to have sighted in the murky Scottish lake.

After six days of watching, Dinsdale said he spotted a reddish-brown "hump" about 1,000 yards across the loch April 23.

As it moved "it threw out a pulsating wake and looked just like the conning tower of a submarine," Dinsdale said.

Dinsdale estimated its neck was six feet long and its body 30 feet.

He was convinced what he saw was not the work of a prankster.

He speculated the monster might be a prehistoric amphibian of the dinosaur family which had continued to breed and live in this landlocked lake for millions of years.

ANGBY—French actress Brigitte Bardot pouted angrily on a French movie set today and described a report that she is retiring from screen to become an antique dealer as "a lot of nonsense." A French gossip columnist had reported "B.B." as saying she was "tired of the kind of life I am living."

RECORD HALIBUT HAUL—The 72-foot Prince Rupert-owned Silver Bounty has checked in with a Pacific Coast record halibut catch of 179,000 pounds.

The vessel unloaded 29,000 pounds at Sand Point, Alaska, during the weekend, then brought the remaining 150,000 pounds to the Prince Rupert Co-Operative Fishermen's As- sociation plant at Fairview.

'New Type of Closure' Charged by Liberal

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA—The government was accused by Liberal MPs Monday of applying "a new type of closure" by insisting on strict relevancy in debating bills and motions in the Commons.

The accusation came as the House debated excise tax and tariff amendments announced in the March 31 budget. Opposition members ran into objections from Finance Minister Fleming when they began to stray oratorically into broad discussions of matters included in the main legislation but not the amendments.

Mr. Fleming said the opposition was trying to revive the eight-day budget debate. He said there would be occasions later for discussion of matters not included in the bills.

A new type of closure is being introduced at the suggestion of the minister of finance," complained William Benidickson (L-Kenora-Rainy River), former parliamentary assistant to Liberal finance minister Walter Harris.

He contended that the Conservative government, by continuously applying the Commons rule that debate on legislation and motions must be strictly relevant, was ignoring the "historic leniency" that had been extended by the former Liberal administration in such debates.

GIFT OF $6,500 was subscribed to University of Victoria building fund by employees in the plywood division of B.C. Forest Products Ltd. Money, added to the $189,976 total donated by employee groups so far, was presented at a special ceremony Monday by employees' representatives, from left: Sophia Bobiak, Jack Burt and Kathleen Gruell. Fund now totals $1,806,622. Target is $2,500,000.

Saanich Bylaw Reduces Signs

A bylaw prohibiting billboards and greatly restricting other forms of sign advertising will almost certainly be passed by Saanich council.

Six of the seven-man council were present and unopposed Monday night when the lands and planning committee tabled the proposed draft bylaw for discussion.

At first draft the bylaw permitted erection of billboards up to 200 square feet in areas at a few locations but this was amended after it was pointed out that the municipality was relatively free of signs "and might as well remain that way."

If passed, the bylaw will hit hardest at service station operators on the main thoroughfares who will have to cut down to two or four signs from as many as 15 signs present now at some locations. It will be the first Saanich bylaw ever presented specifically to deal with signs and billboards.

In the past a permit, under the building bylaw, had to be issued by council for each request to erect a billboard.

APPEARANCE

"I think this bylaw can do more for the appearance of the municipality," said Saanich planner Antony Parr, than almost any other bylaw you can think of."

For administration purposes the municipality would be divided into special zones where only certain types of signs would be permitted.

Permits would have to be taken out for all construction of professional or commercial signs and would range from $1 plus five cents a foot to $1 plus 10 cents a foot.

Signs not conforming to the new law at passage would be permitted to remain for three years and maximum penalty for infractions of the law would be $100 or 30 days in jail.

Reeve George Chatterton asked council to consider an appeal to all municipalities in Greater Victoria for uniform sign regulations "which would protect the whole area."

'Sinister Circles' at Work

GENEVA (CP)—Soviet delegate left the Western powers in the West was prepared to treaty, but did not believe that gate Valerian Zorin today as doubt and anxiety over how begin immediate negotiation a rigid timetable for the whole United States of trying to sabotage the 10-nation disarmament conference.

The Soviet deputy foreign minister said some American circles are opposed to disarmament and are doing everything in their power to wreck the conference.

His statement came five days after U.S. delegate Frederick Eaton warned the Communists to stop casting doubt on the sincerity of the U.S. negotiations.

Conference sources said Zorin made a "sharp attack" on American foreign bases at today's three-hour session of the East-West talks.

Zorin spoke after the West again told Russia that it will never accept a disarmament agreement without an effective control system.

Jules Moch, French disarmament expert, speaking on behalf of all five Western delegations at the 10-power conference, said the Western position on this point "is constant and firm, and the Soviet delegation must realize that it cannot be modified."

Moch said the new Soviet disarmament plan, while accepting controls in principle,

Power 'Mixing' Called Gimmick

A double "gimmick" by the Wenner-Gren interests was charged Monday by CCF leader Robert Strachan.

The opposition leader renewed attacks on both the Pacific Northern Railway and the Peace River Power Development Co., which are dominated by Wenner-Gren B.C. Development Co.

The PNR's application to the Public Utilities Commission "for the clearing of a few miles of bush" is "an election gimmick," said Mr. Strachan.

The application is for a certificate of public convenience to clear 100 miles of a proposed 700-mile rail line to the Yukon border. A public hearing has been set by the PUC for June 21 in Vancouver.

Mr. Strachan contended the railway would never be finished "unless they are assured of substantial giveaways of our natural resources, the franchise on a railway to Alaska and large subsidies from the taxpayer."

A proposal of the Peace firm for an international power pool including the Peace River and Columbia hydro projects, "is a plan to mix the high cost of private power (Peace) with low cost public power from the Columbia."

Mr. Strachan said the plan would "bait out" the Wenner-Gren firm and assure guaranteed profits on the Peace.

The Target Is Japan

IN DISPATCHES TO THIS newspaper from Tokyo last winter it was predicted that the young, untamed democracy of Japan must soon encounter a crisis of one sort or another. This was obvious, and now the crisis has arrived.

It is not exactly of the sort that Japanese statesmen had expected but it springs from the causes long familiar to them. Can a minority of outright Communists and their socialist dupes overturn a freely-elected government supported by a large majority of the voters? That has been the basic question for the last decade and now it appears in a naked struggle of class warfare, precipitated by the forthcoming visit of President Eisenhower.

Seldom has history produced such an ironic turn of events. For Mr. Eisenhower represents the conquering power which gave the Japanese people their freedom and yet he is threatened with attack by organized mobs because he is said to represent the United States' domination of Japan. As usual, the Communists stand the facts upside-down.

If all this is a test of the democratic process in Japan it is also a test of Mr. Eisenhower's courage. Apparently he will meet it.

His visit was well timed in the first place but, like many other things, was caught up in the accident of the spy plane, the fiasco of the summit and the renewal of the cold war. Now he cannot cancel his tour without seeming to fear for his own safety and without indicating that the Japanese Government is powerless to protect him. A ceremonial and friendly gesture becomes a trial of strength in Japan's chaotic politics.

But the West should not underestimate the strength of Mr. Kishi's Government. It is a pretty loose coalition of quarrelling factions and rival personalities, it lacks the foundation of a unified political party, but the great mass of the people support it. Even the split opposition does not pretend that the voters would turn the Government out in a general election. A minority is trying to take office by force while claiming to be the champion of democracy.

As the United States must realize now, a democratic constitution written in the United States has handed formidable weapons to the enemies of the parliamentary system. The Kishi Government is forbidden to use even those measures of self-protection which any American, or any Western Government, would use under these conditions.

In the United States, for example, no labor union may be led by Communists. In Japan many of the great unions are led by Communists who intend to ally their nation with Russia and China if they can. In dealing with violent mobs the police are restrained by a Bill of Rights much stricter than its American model. Deferring to Western opinion, the Government leans backward to protect the real enemies of freedom.

The real issue is nothing but the survival of the parliamentary system imposed, with the best intentions, by the United States with no firm base in Japanese experience.

That issue is far larger than the personality of an American President or the convenience of a Japanese Prime Minister. It involves the entire free world. For Japan, under a Government friendly to the West, is the anchor of its whole line of power in the Pacific.

A Japan allied to the Communist empire, or even neutral, would wreck the free world's strategy in east Asia and undermine it, perhaps fatally, throughout the continent. That is why the strategists of Moscow and Peking have selected Japan as their chief post-Summit target, and also why Mr. Eisenhower cannot retreat under threat.

Brooke Claxton

WHEN THE FULL RECORD of Canadian Government in the last war and immediately after it is written the figure of the late Brooke Claxton will stand among the giants of a time big in men and events. He retired from politics too early and he died tragically young—a grave loss to business and public life, a loss peculiarly poignant to countless friends throughout the nation.

From his earliest days Mr. Claxton distinguished himself by sheer merit and nothing else. In the first world war he was a fighting soldier who could easily have won a commission but preferred to remain a regimental sergeant-major. The second war found him in Parliament and soon in the cabinet of Mackenzie King. And though still young he quickly became one of the most influential men in Ottawa, the tireless work-horse and the indispensable idea man of the Government.

Only those on the inside of Government realized his profound influence on Mr. King, on public policy and on Canadian society. It was largely through his inspiration and almost entirely through his energy and drive that the post-war social policy of Canada was built in 1944 when he headed Mr. King's secret brain trust. That work was well conceived and brilliantly executed though Mr. Claxton never received the proper share of credit for it.

As time went on and he took over the post-war defence ministry no prize of politics seemed beyond his grasp and he was everywhere regarded as a future prime minister. Instead he turned to business where his talents again distinguished him. But he was a man of far-ranging mind to whom the Canadian people always seemed far more important than government or business. His interest in them and what we call Canadian culture led him to the chairmanship of the Canada Council where his final contribution to the nation was not the least of many.

It was not, however, as politician, business executive or champion of the arts that Mr. Claxton is chiefly remembered in his untimely passing. He is remembered as a great-hearted, generous and ever-youthful man who even in the presence of the last enemy never lost his courage or his private vision of Canada.

Ottawa in the Heat

CLIMATICALLY AND POLITICALLY the heat is on at Ottawa. As the June sun warms Parliament Hill the Government suddenly begins to worry, like all governments, about the slow pace of the parliamentary session. Mr. Diefenbaker asks the House of Commons to sit morning, afternoon and night in a desperate effort to put through his session program and go home by the end of July.

This is no way to run a Parliament. As June passes perhaps the most important business of the session is incomplete or untouched.

The attempt to extract the teeth from the Combines Act—an issue of first magnitude—has just begun. Nothing has been heard of the long-promised Bill of Rights. The Government has refused so far to allow a vote on capital punishment. The defence committee has yet to report and when it has reported Parliament has yet to say whether it is satisfied with a defence program which surely satisfies no one else.

Mr. Diefenbaker says in Ottawa that he intends to keep Parliament sitting without a break until it finishes its business. This is an old trick of prime ministers who know that the summer heat will drive the members faster than any parliamentary whip can drive them.

But Parliament is not a race and its vital business requires ample time for consideration. If heat and government are going to combine in pushing the session to a midsummer prorogation much business will certainly be scamped.

Mr. Harold Winch was entirely right (though some members scoffed at him) when he said that the Commons was paid to finish its business in reasonable order even if it took all summer.

Better still: Parliament should enjoy a summer holiday, which it obviously needs as its temper grows short, and then meet again in the cool autumn to complete its program.

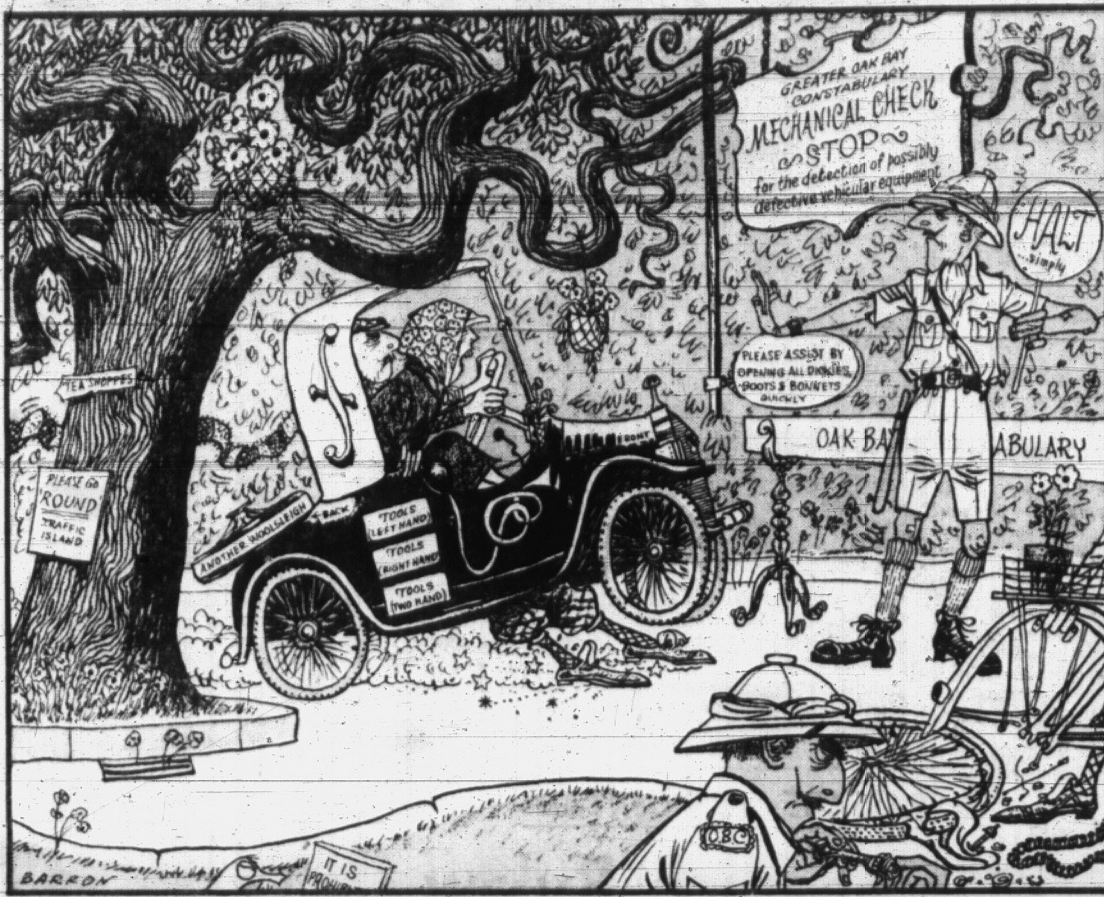

Clearly membership in Parliament has become a full-time job for the average member. He must spend so much of the year in Ottawa that he can hardly pursue another career in business or the professions, not a successful career at any rate. This fact will have to be recognized sooner or later, and the sooner the better.

If we insist that members meet almost continuously, with occasional recesses, as in Britain, then we must pay them a living wage.

The present indemnity of $10,000 seems large to most Canadian wage-earners but when the costs of travel, of absence from home and all the innumerable expenses of public life are considered this pay is low.

Unless it is raised we shall increasingly attract to Parliament either rich men who are not in need of money or poorly qualified men who cannot make a good living outside politics. We shall fail to attract the best men in the nation when we need them more than ever.

We should pay Parliament adequately and then insist that it do its work systematically without the heat-spell rush now beginning again in Ottawa.

... Don't be silly, Cecil... What on earth makes you think they'll want to look at the brakes...?

LOOSE ENDS

Have You Stopped Beating Your Wife?

AMONG other things, television has given us a new legal concept, an expansion of guilt-by-association. As the case of Mr. Lester Pearson demonstrates, we now have guilt by loaded question.

With variants of that old courtroom classic, "Have you stopped beating your wife?" the skilled television interviewer can trip up any honest man. For the best effects it is necessary that the man should be especially honest. If he is not, he will weasel, twist and becloud the issue as the squid darkens the water to foil pursuers.

Thus when Mr. Pearson was asked on television a while ago whether he would prefer death in an atomic war to life under Mr. Khrushchev he would have answered, if he had been honest and candid, with some horrendous denunciation of Communism, a spasm of breast-beating and an eloquent defence of human freedom.

INSTEAD, he replied: "Well, I want to do what I can to make that choice unnecessary. But if I had to make a choice, I would live under Mr. Khrushchev rather than die, and do what I could to throw Mr. Khrushchev and his type out of power."

Mr. Pearson spoke too fast off the cuff and might have known what would happen. Throughout the nation some furious Canadian patriots are writing to the papers to denounce him as an appeaser, a coward and a fool. In Brandon, for instance, The Daily Sun suffered a thousand words of hysterics and rewarded Mr. Pearson with the Lenin Peace Prize.

As this story spreads and becomes more garbled in each telling, we shall soon hear it whispered that Mr. Pearson is secretly soft on Communism, then that he is disloyal to NATO (which he had a large hand in creating) and finally that he is really a deep-dyed Communist behind a bow tie. There is no end to the possibilities of the loaded question if you handle it right.

MR. PEARSON can look after himself as he did in the Suez episode when his successful effort to help the Eden Government out of an awkward corner was translated, by a superb feat of distortion, into betrayal of Britain. But apart from politics, where anything goes and every politician has to say whether he has stopped beating his wife, the latest television incident raises some interesting philosophical points.

To begin with, Mr. Pearson had long ago demonstrated, in the First World War, that he counted his own private life as a small matter beside the survival of his country; and it is clear, if you think about it for a moment (which few television viewers will do) that he was speaking to the interviewer not in a personal but a collective sense. He was thinking about the survival of the human species.

THEREIN lies the supreme philosophical dilemma of all time, though happily, so far, it is imaginary. We are asked, then, to imagine what would happen if, under unimaginable circumstances, Mr. Pearson had to decide on the instant between two absolute alternatives. Either he must surrender to Communism or instantly sentence the whole human species, together with all other terrestrial life, to total, eternal destruction.

That question, as Dr. Johnson said of the man to be hanged next morning, would concentrate anyone's mind quite suddenly. In reverse, it might even bother Mr. Khrushchev a little.

What answer would the sane man give to the ultimate question, loaded not with politics but with nuclear explosion? Unless he was crazy and thought he was God, he could give only one answer. He would not decide to end the human and all other species.

IT is all very well for Mr. Pearson's critics to announce that they would rather die than live under Communism. No doubt they would, as many good men have died rather than live under tyrants. It becomes a rather different matter, however, when a man undertakes to decide, without consulting them, that he will destroy all his fellows, including about a billion children who have no voice in the decision and may well prefer to live even as Communists. How many of the people now screaming at Mr. Pearson would accept that responsibility?

Of course the whole thing is just nonsense, a horror tale and synthetic nightmare of impossible hypotheses dreamed up by some bright boy of the CBC to frighten maiden ladies over their tea cups and distinguished himself as a smart interviewer. He should get a raise in pay immediately for a slick scoop.

IT proves nothing about Mr. Pearson or the world crisis but it does prove, quite vividly, that politics cannot be adequately or safely conducted by television. Instead of debate in Parliament, where a man has the chance to explain fully what he means before the next question is popped at him, the democratic process will never be successfully managed by beating, or ceasing to beat, your wife. It is somewhat more complicated than that.

In the Opinion of Our Correspondents

An Explanation

There have been many inquiries regarding the liquidation of St. Michael's School Limited.

Last September the St. Michael's School Society took over the operation of St. Michael's School from St. Michael's Limited. As the limited company has now no purpose, it is in the process of voluntary liquidation.

It is St. Michael's School Limited, NOT St. Michael's School that is being liquidated.

Gratifying Response

The members of the Solarium Junior League wish to thank the residents of Greater Victoria, Gordon, Head, Langford and Sidney for the support given to the recent fund-raising drive held in aid of British Columbia's only crippled children's convalescent hospital, the Queen Alexandra Solarium located at Gordon Head.

Although this drive was organized entirely by the forty members of the Solarium Junior League, with no paid help, it could never have been carried out without the wonderful assistance received from the many canvassers and those citizens who loaned their homes for use as collection centres.

The latest figures available indicate a gross collection to date of $17,000. Expenses will definitely not exceed $215.00.

It is regretted that some homes were not called upon due to a few last minute cancellations. However, anyone wishing to make a donation may do so by mailing, or leaving the donation at the Solarium Office, Room 125 Yarrow Building, 625 Fort Street, Victoria, B.C. All donations, regardless of amount, are most sincerely appreciated.

Compassionate Divorce

A correspondent prompts us to write that those who see no good in compassionate divorce are like those who see only the body and not the spirit. An attitude not exactly suited to the crises of life.

The law, by rote, is concerned more with the letter than the spirit. Commandments do not admit of conditions. We must make these for ourselves. Theory and practice are father and son to show that rigid laws deny themselves and are inevitably broken.

Consequently, spiritual awareness notes that theory and practice, while related, are separate. Hence, it is possible to condemn in theory and condone in practice. Divorce on compassionate grounds is a case in point!

Seeing only the letter is a form of blindness which the editorial "Absurdity of Canadian Divorce Laws" confirms.

To Clarify

While I am grateful for your interest in my beachcombing activities I would like to clarify one or two matters mentioned in your recent story.

In reference to the "ambassador's" wallet, which I found, it was not made clear that I turned this into the British Embassy in Washington, where I was working and they contacted the U.S. state department, which located the owner. Actually it belonged to a third secretary, not an ambassador.

In respect to Senator William Knowland, I did not say he was "not easy to work with." Senator Knowland is one of the finest men I have ever known and he was exceptionally easy to work with. What was "not easy to work with" was a new policy instituted in the office. To show our feelings three of us left within a few weeks of each other.

PHYLLIS H. RYAN.

Divorce Law

Your correspondent "Reader," June 8, under "Higher Law" is another example of bigotry in the extreme.

He or she talks about an "up-to-date" way which condemns everyone who does not surrender to that nonsense, as having no conscience; while even being afraid to come out in the open and sign his or her name!

Marriage should be based on love; even bigots will agree on that, I assume. The logical consequence is that if there is no mutual love such a marriage should be wiped out; taking into consideration, of course, the future of eventual minor children and this without being hampered by excessive legal expenses.

WASHINGTON:

Far East Fears

By MAX FREEDMAN

AS a matter of deliberate policy, the recent SEATO conference avoided any note of alarm in its assessment of the situation in South-East Asia, though the signs of anxiety are everywhere visible. Mr. Khrushchev may be trying to discredit President Eisenhower as a champion of peace in order to create additional problems for the President during his mission to the Far East. Already that visit has been the cause of hostile demonstrations in Japan. The prolonged calm over Quemoy and Matsu may soon be broken. Mr. Eisenhower will visit Formosa on June 18-19, and this visit may irritate Peking into a calculated challenge.

There was no disagreement at the conference over the importance of Formosa. All countries are agreed that the citizens of Formosa cannot be handed over to China as the price of an agreement with the Peking Government.

In the last few years Formosa has become an essential part of the security system of the United States for the Pacific area. Since the military power of the United States is the principal sanction of SEATO, there is no disposition to challenge its estimate of the strategic value of Formosa.

If it becomes impossible to maintain American bases and troops in Japan, it will be necessary for the United States to use Okinawa more directly in America's defence plans, with the strain on that small island's resources being very great indeed.

It is therefore of the greatest importance to the United States to have its security treaty with Japan come into effect without the recurrent risk of popular demonstrations endangering this military partnership.

Anything which increases tension between Peking and Washington also increases the power for mischief of the extreme nationalists and Communists—a curious alliance—in Tokyo.

Obvious Fact

This fact must be as obvious to the Communist world as it is in Washington. Hence the conviction that Japan, after a long period of detachment, is once again moving to the centre of Asian affairs.

How long can Premier Kishi ride the storm? Will he be followed by leaders less eager to make the alliance with the United States the primary aim of Japanese policy?

To these questions there can be as yet no assured answer; but their challenge fell across the SEATO conference. Yet another source of anxiety is the problem of Laos, Cambodia and Vietnam.

Prime Minister Menzies told the SEATO conference that these states must develop a "sense of community" if they are successfully to withstand Communist pressures. He believed that these countries suffered as much from internal weakness as they did from the threat of Communist penetration.

Another country open to subversion and domination is Indonesia, where the alarm signals are flying with urgent warnings.

In all these lands there is a shortage of trained officials, the constant danger of corruption, and the dangerous reliance on a few leaders who embody the country's aspirations without creating a tradition of responsible leadership.

The members of the SEATO alliance have never been able to create the close procedures of consultation that now exist in NATO. This rather loose grouping does little more than exercise a general power of review over affairs in South-East Asia.

No Tranquility

It was the verdict of the SEATO conference that even a successful summit meeting in Paris would not have ensured a period of tranquility in Asia. The Peking Government has given no sign that it is ready to enter into negotiations with the West on the outstanding points of difference.

The failure at Paris has been given a sinister interpretation by Peking: the United States has been forced to carry the responsibility for the failure. Mr. Parsons, the Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs, believes that China will pursue a policy of calculated challenge in coming months.

If China really wants to be recognized by the United States—and there is the greatest doubt on this point—the Peking Government can make no harsher blunder than to antagonize and embarrass the new President by deliberate repression and provocation.

Although Canada does not belong to SEATO, the Canadian Embassy in Washington received a full report on the SEATO conference, not only from the State Department but also from the representatives of Britain, Australia and New Zealand. Unlike India, which is opposed to SEATO as a regional military alliance, Canada wishes this Asian partnership every success, without desiring to become a member.

ONE TO A CUSTOMER

As far as we know, we have only one life on this earth. It is likely to be broken off at any moment without warning, and at best it is short—much too short for any human being to fulfill all his potentialities or to satisfy all his curiosity about the universe in which he surprisingly he finds himself. And there's a further limitation. Not merely do we have only one life, it's the same life all the time. This has always seemed to me sad and unfair. How I would love, every so often, to be somebody else for a change! Not because I'm fed up with being myself, but simply in order to know what it feels like to be somebody else.

—Walter Allen, British author and critic.

STUCK WITH IT

All modern gadgets increase human happiness except one. My exception is that sticky tape with which people now secure their parcels. When I was a lad there was just string, which was malleable and gay; today there is an adhesive substance that requires great strength to detach (and I have always hated taking exercise) and which is apt, once detached, to get into one's hair, in any case, to block my typewriter. Apart from this I love this modern world.

Worried Grandmothers

Enthusiastic Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

Most likely interest from unhappy grandmothers who are much worried because they feel that their grandchildren are not receiving good food or good training or good medical care. Perhaps grandmother sees the children each evening watching on television one murder, or near hanging or knockdown saloon brawl after another. She wonders why her daughter is going to such effort to teach her children how to murder people and how to become callous to scenes of murder.

Alvarez

Or, grandmother sees a child with flaring ears, or a squinting eye, or a bad birth mark or a receding chin. She wonders why her daughter does not get the defect operated on quickly, before the child's temperament is badly injured. She wonders if I would write her daughter and tell her what she surely should be doing.

I sympathize deeply with these wise grandmothers, and I wish I could help them, but I am sure I had better not "start anything," and I suspect that grandmother had better not fuss too much. If the daughter or son cannot take a quiet and tactful suggestion, more talk probably will only anger them. If I were, the grandmother and had a little money put by, I might offer to pay for the necessary operation. Certainly, it then would be a very stupid or foolish or wrong-headed daughter who would refuse the tremendously important gift to her child. Usually, in the cases in which parents have no money for a much-needed cosmetic operation on their child, a kindly plastic surgeon can soon be found who will do the work for nothing.

Men want to know what to do about a chronic inflammation of the prostate gland. The first thing the man needs to do is to consult a physician who will express some secretion from the gland, look at it under a microscope, and see if there are many pus cells present. Then he must decide if the pus cells in the secretion are producing any symptoms, or are causing the discomfort the person is complaining about. Usually, there is little sense in spending much time and money treating a disease that the man either hasn't got, or which is not bothering him, or is not going to turn into anything.

Most men with a mild prostatitis do not feel anything, but a few feel distress deep in their pelvis under their umbilicus. Some men worry about a drop of gummy secretion which they find each morning at the outlet of the urethra tube that carries urine out of the bladder.

The treatment for prostatitis consists usually of massaging the prostate and expressing the secretion. The doctor examines the secretion under a microscope and when it contains only a few pus cells, he will pronounce his patient cured.

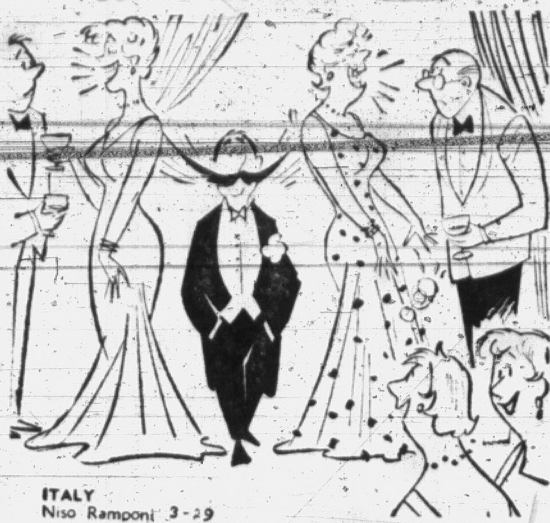

One of the commonest complaints, especially of older persons, is of head noises, often with dizziness, and occasionally with nausea and vomiting. Usually the first question in the physician's mind is: are the noises due to disease in the ears or are they arising in some area of the brain injured by a "little stroke?" If the person is under 40 he is likely to have ear trouble, but if he is over 60 he is very likely to have arteriosclerosis in his brain.

If he has Meniere's disease, which is due to an abnormality in the lining of the balancing mechanism in his inner ears, then, sooner or later, he must have some loss of hearing. If a man of 60 who has had a bad dizzy spell and now has ear noises is told by a good and honest ear man that his hearing is normal, then he cannot have Meniere's disease, and there is no sense in his travelling around the country from one ear man to another.

With the sudden spells of Meniere's disease, a young person will feel that he or the room is spinning around; he may be thrown to the floor where he may vomit. The old person who has had perhaps one dizzy and woozy spell usually will say that there was no spinning around—only a feeling of loss of the normal good and comfortable sense of balance.

Often the doctor can tell that the brain was injured because, during the spell, the man saw double, or for a few hours an arm was numb and clumsy, or for some weeks afterwards his memory was poor, or he was irritable, irascible and unreasonable, and perhaps unable to work.

Unfortunately, we doctors haven't any very good treatment for either Meniere's disease or the little strokes. We may give the patient unsalted food, or we may give nicotinic acid or histamine, or anti-histamines, but the results are seldom spectacular. The patient's greatest hope will be that his disease will go away by itself and leave him alone.

Hospital Premium Boost Tory Trick Says CCFer

TORONTO (CP)—Progressive Conservative governments across Canada are boosting hospital premiums to try to convince the public it cannot afford full health insurance coverage, Ontario CCF leader MacDonald said today.

Mr. MacDonald said in a press statement it was no coincidence that the Manitoba government boosted premium rates 50 per cent last Thursday, the day after the Saskatchewan election, and an increase is pending in Ontario.

HOME GARDEN

By JACK BEASTALL

Try the Other Way 'Round

Sometimes we can get better results for the effort we expend by reversing our procedures.

Aphides, for instance, are quite troublesome in this area, and ants are to be found in most gardens.

The aphides are considered pests which should be destroyed because we can see the results of their presence on our plants, but the ants are classed as industrious, intelligent and harmless insects.

Therefore, as gardeners, we wage constant war on the aphides and allow the ants to go their way.

Were we to reverse this procedure and destroy the ants first, we would possibly obtain better control of the aphides.

You may have noticed that when ants are found scurrying up and down the stems and over the foliage of plants there are aphides under the leaves or clustered at the soft growing tips. This combination is particularly evident on broad beans and plum trees.

The presence of aphides is indicated on indoor plants by a sticky substance found on the foliage which is followed by a black or sooty mould.

The sticky substance is called honeydew and it is as important to the rearing of young ants as milk is to an infant.

Therefore the ants maintain a "herd" of aphides as humans do cows, carrying them to the nest, milking them to feed the young, and then returning them to pasture on the plants.

Once the ant nests are destroyed, together with the aphides therein, we get better control of the infestations on our plants because the ants are not present to replace what we have expended effort to remove.

'Wreck' Not Wreck, Not Canadian

SINGAPORE (AP)—A British Navy spokesman said that what was first believed to be the shipwreck of a Canadian cargo vessel on a sandbank north of Borneo has turned out to be only a difficulty in a Filipino firm's salvage operation which has been going on for months.

He said distress signals received here Monday were interpreted as indicating that a freighter named Lake Barnaby had run aground and broken in two. The British frigate Woodbridge Haven raced to the scene after RAF planes spotted the wreck.

But the spokesman said investigation showed the vessel was British and had been wrecked perhaps as long as a year ago. The distress signals came from the crew of a Manila salvage firm. The salvage crew had cut away the stern half of the vessel and a tug was attempting a tow.

MISSILE WORKERS VOTE ON OFFER BY CONVAIR

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Convair machinists were voting today on an offer that could ease the missile industry's labor troubles as strike deadlines neared for 50,000 other workers.

The International Association of Machinists began polling 30,000 members Monday night on the offer that involves field wage rates, per diem pay, relation benefits and seniority at Atlas missile bases where the machinists walked out eight days ago.

The strike, stretching from Cape Canaveral in Florida to California's Vandenberg Air Force Base, has tied up the sites that test and fire the Atlas—the United States' only operational intercontinental missile.

EVERY THIRD PERSON IN CANADA OWNS CAR

TORONTO (CP) — Canadian motor vehicle registrations in 1959 totalled 3,011,506, made up of 2,795,194 cars and 216,312 trucks, says the Canadian Automobile Chamber of Commerce.

During 1959 the 5,828,855 Canadians who have drivers' permits drove 11,000,000,000 miles and used 3,400,000,000 gallons of gasoline.

There was a vehicle for every 3.5 persons and a passenger car for every 4.7 persons.

Mortgage Interest Rates Soften

By HAI MALONE
Times Business Editor

The news is good today for potential homeowners seeking conventional first mortgage loans.

Interest rates in Victoria have softened slightly.

Mortgage companies say it's too early to tell if a lowering of interest rates marks the start of a trend. But they agree that the rate which soared as high as 8 per cent last winter has dropped to 7 1/2 per cent.

A few companies are offering first mortgages at 7 1/2 but they are being highly selective, particularly in respect to location.

A major mortgage company reported it has ample funds for firsts at 7 1/2 per cent in the Greater Victoria area.

Said a spokesman: "In areas like Sooke and Sidney we're charging 7 1/2. That's still cheaper than the 8 per cent being charged by a few private money sources."

Even with the dip conventional mortgages here are still slightly higher than in Vancouver. A few mainland companies are granting mortgages at 7 per cent of just 1/4 of 1 per cent higher than National Housing Act mortgages.

DIFFERENT DEMAND

Most mortgage company spokesmen say there is a different demand for mortgages today than there was a year ago.

"More people who want to build their own house or who have a relative or friend to help build are applying. There aren't too many applicants who have the money and a conventional first mortgage tractor lined up."

One of the city's largest mortgage grantors believes the interest rate will drop even lower here, perhaps to 7 per cent.

His firm is charging 7 1/2 per cent on new homes, 7 1/2 to 7 3/4 on older properties.

A prominent trust company reports a drop in its first mortgage interest from 8 to 7 1/2, 7 1/2 simply because it is paying less for its debenture money.

Last fall the company paid 6 per cent for debentures. Today it is paying 5 1/2. Add about 1 1/2 per cent for handling and the firm makes from 1 to 1 1/2 per cent on its loans.

The trust company spokesman noted that there seems to be no shortage of mortgage money.

He said trust companies are getting considerable competition from life insurance companies or mortgages for older homes.

"Insurance companies appear to have substantial sums of mortgage money available," he said. "There's been so little NHA business I suppose it's only natural."

If it is apparent that a few mortgage men expect the interest rate to go even lower, it is even more noteworthy that none expect it to return to the 8 per cent figure.

Money is still tight, it seems. But they're easing the tightness for borrowers.

ODD LOTS — Highways Minister Phil Gaglardi can smack his lips over this one.

Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau chief William Hawkins says U.S. guests on the provincial ferry service trial run unanimously declared: "This ship beats anything we have."

American Motors Corporation may have come up with an outstanding first with a ceramic-coated exhaust system slated for installation on 1961 Ramblers, Business Week tests indicate ceramic-coated mufflers and tailpipes might last for the life of an automobile. That's quite a change from present conditions when original equipment often lasts only eight to 15 months.

Don't Count Bantam Ben Out of the 'Big One'

DENVER (UPI) — The he "sucked out" his tongue on the putting green at Cherry Hills Country Club where on Thursday he will start his quest for his tie-breaking fifth victory in golfing's "big one" championship today — and the little man seeking a record fifth triumph agreed with them.

Ben Hogan admitted that the men who picked him to leave his ancient Willie Anderson and sticks, nobody is selling him the immortal Bobby Jones in short in this fairway jamboree his wake could be right.

"I'm playing pretty well," he said. "Least of all, Bantam the 48-year-old four-time winner from Texas confirmed as — What do you mean I'm hable to fire in that second cause of the rare atmosphere that is so, there is one fellow than that. Ben can stop the ball on the green better than the rest of us — most bite know-how — and if we get the weather that they are promising, this could be a deciding factor.

"On top of that, he's an old campaigner. Everybody is talking about what a low score it will take to win — So he'll shoot a 280 — while the rest of us are knocking our brains out trying to card a 272 and he could coast in."

But it was bulldog Wally Burkemo who summed it up most succinctly. "The little Sarge," one of the deadliest players on the fairways, observed:

"Hogan is a threat any time he tees it up. He'll shoot 280 even if he's putting bad."

That would be three shots under par. And even while they are talking about breaking Hogan's record 276 there isn't a man in the field who wouldn't settle for 280 right now and sit in the locker room and let them go at it.

And, he added without which has been absolutely perfecting a deep breath, "I'm feeling pretty well now and playing even more important. I'm putting a little better."

Hogan holds the record — his winning 276 at California's Riviera Country Club in 1948 — and he figures that it could be broken this time around.

Hills course, which is a par 35-36 — 71 of 7,004 yards. Ben And, his cohorts contend, if

La Motta testified that he was "play acting" when the referee stopped the Madison Square Garden bout in the fourth round and gave the victory to Fox on a TKO.

La Motta, grim-faced and tight-lipped, said he took the dive in exchange for a promise that "something might be arranged" to give him a shot at the middleweight crown.

La Motta said he had been offered $100,000 earlier to throw the fight, but had refused.

La Motta was subpoenaed as the opening witness in the long-awaited investigation of boxing by the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee.

Before La Motta took the stand, it was reported that an underworld figure had threatened his life.

The racketeer was said to have warned La Motta in a telephone call that he would be "hit in the head" if he talked freely to the investigators.

United Press International was told that confirmation of the threat and possibly the identity of the mysterious caller were expected to come out during questioning of La Motta.

La Motta, one-time idol of thousands of youngsters and fight fans, said he decided to go along with the "fix" while he was in training for the Fox bout. He said his spleen was ruptured and he knew he would be in "difficulties" if Fox hit him hard there.

Actually, La Motta admitted under questioning, Fox did not harm him seriously before the "TKO."

"... 175 pounds of flesh was hitting me in the face but I wasn't hurt badly," La Motta declared.

Directing the cross-examination was John G. Bonomi, former New York assistant district attorney who helped convict such racketeers as Gabriel Genovese, Frank Carbo and Johnny Dio during his career.

La Motta said he just stood there in the ring "helpless" while Fox threw a number of punches. Then "The referee stopped the fight."

The controversial light-heavyweight match drew a storm of criticism from New York sportswriters, who charged that it was a "phony."

Authorities later investigated but La Motta denied any wrongdoing. Today, the boxer admitted he lied to them.

SPORTS DIARY

By JIMMY CANNON

You're Floyd Patterson, and it's June again. But the referee never stopped counting. It is as if the first knockdown lasted a year. You still seem to be lying prone, trying to get up after being struck by the original right hand Ingemar Johansson struck you.

The other six knockdowns appear to have been forgotten.

Always you have been an inconspicuous man. All spotlights go out when you step into their inquisitive glare. In a casual business, you haven't a nickname. You provoke no passion. You instigate no comedy. You arouse no pity. In a furious trade, your callulated serenity bodes people.

You are the victim. Johansson is the assassin of your myth. In other departments of a newspaper, the corpse becomes the stooge once the coroner pronounces him extinct. It is the murderer who gets the attention up front in the papers.

Except in isolated instances, this is not the way in sports journalism. It is a field rooted in sentiment. Often the reports of games are written with embarrassing emotion. Only those who laid the price on you last June seemed concerned. You are just the body Johansson left behind him in the Yankee Stadium ring last June.

At 25, you seem to have succumbed to old age. It is as if you borrowed your body from another generation. You suggest a man who has been used up by years he never lived.

Did your youth end in '56? The skills commenced to wither after you knocked out Archie Moore. You were meanly quick in November. Nothing was left for the bitter June to come. But that night you appeared to be shaped for a prolonged greatness. Intelligent men suggested you would eventually blend with John L. Sullivan, Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis.

You beat a man who is one of the final custodians of the fight racket's glorious techniques. You handled him with a wickedly agile contempt. You were poised far beyond your time on earth.

Great though Moore has been, the night you knocked him out he was an obese heavyweight, slow with fat. You are also a fraudulent heavyweight. Alongside of Johansson, you become stunted and frail.

After setting Moore, you fought like a depleted old man. Those who live off you offered glib excuses. You didn't fight often enough. Too much training turned you stale. Your manager, Cus D'Amato, had the effrontery to insinuate you were experimenting and declaimed you were the greatest heavyweight in all the ages of boxing.

Your first opponent as a champion was Tommy Jackson. He was an industrious freak, an angry slapper whose sadly impractical style generally induced laughter. Those who watched you beat him up were disgusted.

After that, D'Amato put you in with the most disgraceful mark ever matched with a champion. Pete Rademacher was an amateur who had never fought for money. But he was a heavyweight and he knocked you down before he collapsed from exhaustion in a parody of a title contest.

The next fall-over was Roy Harris. D'Amato had avoided respectable contenders because, he insisted, they were connected with Jim Norris. But Harris was handled by Lou Viscusi who was part of the Norris-Frank Carbo alliance. Principle was ignored by Cus The Mus because Harris couldn't punch. Again, you were knocked down during the course of the sloppy butchery.

D'Amato then handed you Brian London, who had the style of a drunken woman. Add Johansson and that's your history as a heavyweight champion. Even Primo Carnera's peculiar record is better. He defeated Paolino Uzcudun and Tommy Loughran before Max Baer took him out.

You were denounced as a hoax perpetuated by D'Amato after Johansson dumped you. You went into sorrowful concealment for a long time. It must have occurred to you that this accusation might not be just the spiteful estimation of prejudiced slanders. The last time Johansson was ridiculed as a foreign hound who quit in the Olympics. But this June you are the body that the slayer of your legend left in the Yankee Stadium ring.

They may have a bit more respect for umpires in the Heywood Avenue Park Senior Softball League today.

The umpires played MacNutt Monday night in a benefit game for injured Norm Dickie and the ump managed to show the Grocers some softball finesse as they grabbed a 16-3 decision.

Fans showed their appreciation by donating $113.50 towards Dickie's hospital expenses.

Hal Yardley and Gus Hilton, who have not played softball for quite a while, led the winners at the plate.

Yardley banged out a double and three singles in five trips, while Hilton hit four singles in five tries.

Hodges Switches To Portland Club

PORTLAND (AP) — Berlyn Hodges has been named trainer of Portland's new team in the Western Hockey League. Hodges for the last seven years has been the trainer for Victoria in the same league.

Hodges' appointment is for the 1960-61 season. He will take over the job July 10.

The racketeer was said to have warned La Motta in a telephone call that he would be "hit in the head" if he talked freely to the investigators.

United Press International was told that confirmation of the threat and possibly the identity of the mysterious caller were expected to come out during questioning of La Motta.

La Motta, one-time idol of thousands of youngsters and fight fans, said he decided to go along with the "fix" while he was in training for the Fox bout. He said his spleen was ruptured and he knew he would be in "difficulties" if Fox hit him hard there.

Actually, La Motta admitted under questioning, Fox did not harm him seriously before the "TKO."

"... 175 pounds of flesh was hitting me in the face but I wasn't hurt badly," La Motta declared.

Directing the cross-examination was John G. Bonomi, former New York assistant district attorney who helped convict such racketeers as Gabriel Genovese, Frank Carbo and Johnny Dio during his career.

La Motta said he just stood there in the ring "helpless" while Fox threw a number of punches. Then "The referee stopped the fight."

The controversial light-heavyweight match drew a storm of criticism from New York sportswriters, who charged that it was a "phony."

Authorities later investigated but La Motta denied any wrongdoing. Today, the boxer admitted he lied to them.

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Former middleweight champion Jake La Motta, with a death threat from the underworld hanging over his head, told Senate investigators today his 1947 fight loss to Billy Fox was "fixed."

La Motta testified that he was "play acting" when the referee stopped the Madison Square Garden bout in the fourth round and gave the victory to Fox on a TKO.

La Motta, grim-faced and tight-lipped, said he took the dive in exchange for a promise that "something might be arranged" to give him a shot at the middleweight crown.

La Motta said he had been offered $100,000 earlier to throw the fight, but had refused.

La Motta was subpoenaed as the opening witness in the long-awaited investigation of boxing by the Senate anti-trust and monopoly subcommittee.

Before La Motta took the stand, it was reported that an underworld figure had threatened his life.

FLOYD PATTERSON

Except in isolated instances, this is not the way in sports journalism. It is a field rooted in sentiment. Often the reports of games are written with embarrassing emotion. Only those who laid the price on you last June seemed concerned. You are just the body Johansson left behind him in the Yankee Stadium ring last June.

At 25, you seem to have succumbed to old age. It is as if you borrowed your body from another generation. You suggest a man who has been used up by years he never lived.

Did your youth end in '56? The skills commenced to wither after you knocked out Archie Moore. You were meanly quick in November. Nothing was left for the bitter June to come. But that night you appeared to be shaped for a prolonged greatness. Intelligent men suggested you would eventually blend with John L. Sullivan, Jack Dempsey and Joe Louis.

You beat a man who is one of the final custodians of the fight racket's glorious techniques. You handled him with a wickedly agile contempt. You were poised far beyond your time on earth.

Great though Moore has been, the night you knocked him out he was an obese heavyweight, slow with fat. You are also a fraudulent heavyweight. Alongside of Johansson, you become stunted and frail.

After setting Moore, you fought like a depleted old man. Those who live off you offered glib excuses. You didn't fight often enough. Too much training turned you stale. Your manager, Cus D'Amato, had the effrontery to insinuate you were experimenting and declaimed you were the greatest heavyweight in all the ages of boxing.

Your first opponent as a champion was Tommy Jackson. He was an industrious freak, an angry slapper whose sadly impractical style generally induced laughter. Those who watched you beat him up were disgusted.

Wrestle-O-Reenie Punch for Pipsqueak Paul

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Archie Moore, the little pipsqueak Paul Pender challenging me, "I am startled by Pender's audacity," said the venerable monarch of the 175-pounders, reflecting on the Boston Irishman's ambition to fight Moore for the light heavyweight title. "For me to meet a man like that and face my conscience, I would have to agree to let him carry a pistol," giggled Archie Sunday told columnist Melvin Durslag of the Los Angeles Examiner. "Pender is just a plain nothing," Archie said. "He is a sub-par fighter."

Moore said Pender beat Sugar Ray Robinson Friday for the New York Massachussetts version of the middleweight title, simply by out-clenching the sugar man. "This guy wrestled Robinson at least two minutes a round," Archie said.

And a minute or otherwise, Pender wouldn't get away with that against him, Archie said.

"I spent 20 years researching a punch for just this type of opponent," Archie said. "I call it 'Archie Moore's Wrestle-O-Reenie'."

"Most punches are thrown straight, or are brought up. The Wrestle-O-Reenie is brought down. Travels but eight inches. It is angled at 90 degrees and beats 500 pounds of pressure per square inch. "When I bring this punch down the heels of the other man's up," snarled Moore.

Archie said he thought Robinson outpointed Pender Friday, but he doesn't feel sorry for the sugar man.

"He's a contemptible fellow," Moore said. "I watched him in the ring before the fight. Jack Sharkey came to shake his hand. Robinson ignored him. And what he did to Joe Louis was disgraceful. He all but turned away from him."

Joe Louis paved the way for guys like Robinson and me," said Archie, speaking of the great Negro heavyweight.

"We couldn't start to repay him."

Archie, a 206-pound tower of jello in his last bout, said he'll have a new look when he meets Eric Schoepner for the 175-pound title next month. Archie gave this reason why he picked up the extra blubber:

"I was just trying to prove that fat men have their place in the world, too."

Laurie Still Had Touch But Uplands Took Lead

Laurie Kerr took up Monday where he left off Sunday, but all that he proved was that one player can't carry his team in the city inter-club golf matches.

Kerr, who won his fourth city amateur championship on Sunday, set out Monday evening at Uplands Golf Club to try and boost Colwood in the four-club league.

Shooting a fine 66, Kerr defeated Frank Scroggs, 7 and 6, and partnered George Andrews for a four-ball victory despite the fact that Andrews bowed, 3 and 2, to Gord Pellow.

COURT WINS

That accounted for two points. Bill Court added one more with a 1-up win over Claude Heggie, but that was all for Colwood as Uplands grabbed a 6-3 team victory over the defending champions.

The loss left Colwood tied for third place with Victoria Golf Club, which now has 13½ points after edging Gorge Vale by one point, 5-4, over the Oak Bay course.

Results moved Uplands into a slim one-point lead over Gorge Vale with 23 points.

INTERESTED SCHEDULE

Uplands must play Gorge and Victoria in its two remaining matches, while Gorge meets Uplands and Colwood. It's a schedule which should prove interesting since the Oak Bay team has apparently rounded into top form.

Victoria was helped to its win by the return of Dr. George Bigelow. Dr. Bigelow was in fine fettle as he handed Art Donaldson his first defeat, 3 and 1.

Dr. Bigelow bogeyed the sixth, 11th and 14th holes and double-bogeyed the fifth, but he scored birdies on the first, third, 10th, 16th and 17th holes and made fine recovery shots for pars on the seventh and 14th to finish with a one-under-par 68.

Gorge Vale's Norm Boden also turned in a hot round, using only 25 putts in touring the Victoria course in 67 to defeat Cliff Horwood.

Standings and results:

Uplands	23
Gorge Vale	22
Colwood	13½
Victoria	13½

COLWOOD AT UPLANDS

Laurie Kerr defeated Frank Scroggs, 7 and 6; George Andrews lost to Gord Pellow, 3 and 2. Four-ball to Kerr, Andrews, 4 and 2.

Vince Clarkson lost to Bob Morrison, 1 up; Roger Rosa lost to Ken Lawson, 1 up. Four-ball to Morrison-Lawson, 1 up.

Bill Court defeated Claude Heggie, 1 up; Vic Palmer lost to Fred Benson, 3 and 2. Four-ball to Heggie-Ranson, 1 up.

GORGE VALE AT VICTORIA

Art Donaldson lost to George Bigelow, 3 and 1; Dave Panthorpe defeated Laurie Carroll, 4 and 2. Four-ball to Bigelow-Carroll, 4 and 2.

John Merriman lost to Roy Chappell, 2 and 4; Bill Wainman defeated Bill McColl, 1 up. Four-ball to Chappell-McColl, 1 up.

Fred Palmer lost to Doug Munro, 2 and 4; Norm Boden defeated Cliff Horwood, 8 and 2. Four-ball to Palmer-Boden, 2 up.

Uphill Struggle For Springboks

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuters) — South Africa put on 120 runs for the loss of three second-innings wickets Monday in an uphill fight in the first cricket test match against England.

A score of 68 not out by Roy McLean after early setbacks helped the South Africans. One day of play is left.

South Africa dismissed England in its second innings for 203 runs. England made 292 in the first innings and South Africa replied with 186, leaving the Springboks in need of 310 runs to win.

Spirited batting by the tail-enders boosted England's lead before being all out 39 minutes after lunch. The last three wickets put on 85.

South Africa made a disastrous start when it lost opener Jack McGlew and Trevor Goddard to Brian Statham for only five runs.

Other close-of-play scores: At Cambridge: Cambridge-University 119 and 30 for 2; Free Foresters 49 for 6 declared. At Lord's: Middlesex 147 and 151 for 6 declared. At Nottingham: Nottinghamshire 181 and 49 for no wicket; Warwickshire 308 for 8 declared. At Northampton: Gloucestershire 302 for 5 declared; Northamptonshire 137 and 115 for 2. At Exeter: Essex 207; Somerset 256.

The little finger of the right hand is snug against the forefinger of the left. The right hand's fingers are close together and on the shaft. As pointed out in the accompanying illustration, the gripping pressure of the right hand is exerted mainly by the middle two fingers.

As with the left hand there is a slight separation between the forefinger and the next finger of the right hand to increase the gripping area. The thumb of the right hand has closed over the top of the shaft and on to the left side.

The line or V formed by the right hand also points up toward the centre of the body or toward the right shoulder. The right hand also will be slightly under the wrist so the right arm and shaft will be as much in line as possible. Thus the right arm and club can work as one throughout the swing.

Finally, the thumb of the left hand is encased in a pocket formed by the placement of the fight forefinger and thumb.

As far as the over-all gripping pressure is concerned, the hands are holding the club

Middle two fingers comfortably without undue tension in the forearms.

NEXT: The grip just before the backswing.

Municipalities Discuss Share of Income Taxes

Mayor Percy Scurrah of Victoria, backed by several councillors, will try to start the ball rolling Wednesday on his suggestion that a slice of the federal income tax be turned over to municipalities.

He will bring it up in informal discussion at the annual convention of the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities in Courtenay.

If the convention makes a formal approval of the idea, it will go before the Union of B.C. Municipalities' fall convention.

The Victoria delegation, with Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow and Ald. M. H. Mooney as official voting delegates, also will propose two resolutions to the island conference.

One resolution urges the provincial government to establish separate arbitration boards, headed by judges, for making awards in disputes between police and firemen's unions and civic councils.

The other resolution criticizes installment payments to municipalities of government grants-in-aid and asks that they be made in lump sums early in the year, so that the municipalities do not have to borrow money while waiting for widely-spaced installments.

A $2.50 per month water rate has been set for Parks and Recreation by the B.C. cabinet.

The new water works rate established under an order in council from the provincial government follows a village bylaw proposal.

The flat fee applies up to 10,000 gallons. After that any extra is 20 cents per thousand.

FARM MARKET REVIVAL MAKING SLOW PROGRESS

DUNCAN—A group of seven stallholders, given three months notice to vacate the Farmers' Market on Government street about this time one year ago, are making little headway in their efforts to have the stalls rebuilt on the city-operated parking lot on the old agricultural grounds.

"I'd like to see them get together. There's no doubt they'd bring business into town," Ald. J. H. Saunders said Monday when the matter was brought before city council again.

W. B. Barker, secretary of the Cowichan Agricultural Society, wrote council that the society and the Cowichan Farmers' Institute did not wish to incur any expense in rebuilding the stalls.

'He Never Thought Of Slowing Down'

MONTREAL, (CP)—The indefatigable Brooke Claxton, 61, died Monday after struggling for months against cancer. His life was devoted to public service to the end.

For the last three years he had combined the roles of insurance executive and unpaid chairman of the arts promoting Canada Council, working in both with a stamina that ended only when he was taken to hospital Saturday.

Liberal MP for Montreal St. Lawrence-St. George from 1940 to 1954, he drafted Canada's family allowance legislation, was the country's first minister of national health and welfare and for the last 7½ years of his political career was the minister of national defence—the job in which he was best known to Canadians.

In the latter job he was responsible for the post-war defence buildup of the Canadian forces, spurred in 1950 by the outbreak of the Korean War.

Worked Long Hours

He retired from political life in 1954, to become Canadian head of the Metropolitan Life Insurance Company, with which his family has been associated since 1885.

Mr. Claxton, who built up a reputation for a long working day that often stretched to 21 hours and normally was around 12 to 16, had been too ill for weeks to go to his Ottawa office. But he had his work sent home, refusing to recognize that cancer was an impediment to his work.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday, at 2:30 p.m., EDT, in Christ Church Cathedral here. A memorial service also will be held for him Thursday at St. Matthias Anglican Church, Montreal.

Prime Minister Diefenbaker said in a statement that Mr. Claxton earned the respect of Commons members whatever their political views.

"The honorable Brooke Claxton was a decorated veteran of the First World War, a lawyer of distinction and a parliamentarian of note, but his outstanding contribution in my opinion was as chairman of the Canada Council. This was a work to which he devoted himself unceasingly and unsparingly."

'Outstanding Career'

Former prime minister Louis St. Laurent said Mr. Claxton's death closes one of the most outstanding careers of public service to Canada in his generation.

Defence Minister Peckes, who was the opposition's chief defence critic while Mr. Claxton was defence minister, said Mr. Claxton always will be considered the creator of modern defence forces in Canada.

Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson, who was external affairs minister while Mr. Claxton was defence minister, summed up Mr. Claxton's outstanding qualities as sincerity, courage and energy.

"It never occurred to him

Boundaries For Voting Revised

B.C. electoral officials are busy on a thorough overhaul of the province's voting system, in preparation for the general election expected in September.

Latest in a long series of revisions is review of the boundaries of polling divisions in three mainland constituencies.

Returned to chief electoral officer Fred Hurley this week were new detailed outlines of the polling divisions in Chilliwack, Dewdney and New Westminster ridings.

Other boundaries are to be re-defined to take into account shifts in population since the last general election in 1956.

A record number of registered voters is expected when the final count is in. That will be a week after election writs have been issued.

Foreign Aid Chopped

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The House appropriations committee Monday rejected an 11th-hour plea from President Eisenhower and chopped his request for foreign aid funds by an amount he said would jeopardize free world security.

THIEF CAN'T COME HERE

VANCOUVER (CP)—John J. O'Connor, 66, told Magistrate Oscar Orr that he was just out of the B.C. Penitentiary after serving sentence for his 35th conviction. He pleaded guilty to theft from a store, but said he wanted to go to Victoria.

"I can't do that," said the magistrate as he sentenced O'Connor to three months. "That wouldn't be fair to Victoria."

Refused Commission

Mr. Claxton was born Aug. 23, 1898, in Montreal. At 17, he left McGill University, giving up a commission in a unit that was staying home in order to enlist in the ranks of the 10th Canadian Siege Battery which was going overseas. While there he won the Distinguished Conduct Medal.

On his return to Canada he resumed his studies at McGill, graduating in 1921 with honours in law.

As a young man, he got a reputation as something of a radical. He was a member of the Canadian League, dedicated to promotion of things Jane.

Kitchen Cabinet

Three years after his election to the Commons in 1940, he was appointed parliamentary assistant to Prime Minister Mackenzie King, and became a member of the select "kitchen cabinet" group around which Mr. King did the main exploratory work on new government policies.

He was appointed minister of national health and welfare a new ministry which he built from scratch on Oct. 13, 1944, and became defence minister on Dec. 12, 1946.

He married the former Helen Galt Savage of Montreal in 1925. They had three children—John Brook, David who was drowned as a youth, and Helen Jane.

BEST BET to take over power in Red China after Mao Tse-tung steps down is Lui Shao-chi, above, says Field Marshal Montgomery. The British war leader said Mao had hinted as much to him during his recent visit to Peking. Lui stepped into the limelight last year when he was unexpectedly elected president of the Communist State on party affairs. Until then Gen. Chu-teh had been considered the No. 2 man in Red China.

Disease Blamed on Poor Housing

KINGSTON, Ont. (CP)—care to infant feeding, cold, diphtheria and Eskimo mortality to The man responsible for fighting disease among northern Indians said Monday night that poor housing means poor health.

With the aid of a slide projector Dr. J. S. Willis conducted members of the Indian Eskimo Association of Canada on a tour of homes on reservations across the country to see how Indians actually live.

They saw the utter squalor of cluttered northern shacks without plumbing or planning, tiny houses decently kept in spite of poverty and dwellings that would compare with those in comfortable suburbs.

Dr. Willis, Indian northern health services directorate of the national health and welfare department, said poor housing hits babies hardest—the mortality rate for infants less than a year old is 110 per thousand for Indians, 30 per thousand for Canada generally.

Factors in the housing health relationship were nutrition—families living in hovels were not likely to give much

FUSILIERS TO TACKLE UNCLIMBED B.C. PEAKS

LONDON (Reuters)—The Royal Fusiliers (City of London Regiment) are sending a seven-man mountaineering team to a virtually unexplored area of the Rocky Mountains in British Columbia this summer, the War Office announced today.

The team will attempt to scale several hitherto unclimbed peaks in the north of the province, among them Mount Churchill, Roosevelt and Stalin, the office said.

One of the expedition's main aims is to explore the area thoroughly and make geological and botanical collections, it said.

OVERDOING IT?

Disease Societies Questioned

BANFF, Alta. (CP) — A leading executive member of the Canadian Medical Association suggested Monday that medical public relations programs may be creating a race of neurotics.

Dr. E. K. Lyon of Leamington, Ont., deputy president of the CMA, said there now is a society for almost every disease and every organ in the body.

"In our enthusiasm to enlighten the public of the advances in our art and science, I sometimes wonder if we have gone too far," he added in a speech to the CMA general council.

Although lay educational programs are put on with the best intentions, Dr. Lyon said the amount of literature in the lay press — "much of it written by ill-informed people" — is contributing to the nervous tensions common among people.

He suggested a national campaign with the slogan — "Stop worrying, start living."

Rawlings' Death Came In Few Hours

Cecil Rawlings, 75, Cook, died a few hours after the crash of a Seabee amphibian into a mountain side near Nitinat Lake, a coronor's inquiry revealed Monday.

The president of C & C Transportation Ltd. died of numerous injuries and fractures after dragging himself about 1,500 feet through rugged terrain.

The crash occurred May 29 — some fishermen heard an explosion about 7 p.m. — and Mr. Rawlings "most likely lasted until after midnight," said Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart.

His business partner, Cecil Rhodes, who owned and piloted the plane, was killed instantly when the aircraft went down about 70 miles northwest of Victoria.

BROADWAY GAY AGAIN AS THEATRES REOPEN

NEW YORK (AP) — Broadway blazed forth in all its brilliant glory Monday night with the end of the first stage blackout in 41 years. Nineteen theatres came alive again to lights, song, dance and drama.

Nearly 800 actors returned to the footlights, covered for the first time in theatre history by a pension plan. It was their chief gain in a new contract agreed to last week by Actors Equity and the Producers' League of New York Theatres.

New Tofino Link Gets Air Survey

LATE REPORT TOUCHES OFF SEARCH ALERT

A short-lived alert for an "overdue" Victoria-based float plane was called off Monday evening when Newton D. Cameron, 1011 Moss, contacted air-sea rescue officials at Sea Island.

Mr. Cameron, president of Sooke Lake Lumber Ltd., was presumed missing when he did not confirm his arrival from a Port Angeles trip as scheduled in his flight plan.

"I landed at Esquimalt Harbor all right but I was an hour late in reporting," he said today.

Gaglardi Hopes for Improvement

Highways Minister P. A. Gaglardi Wednesday will get a bird's eye view of the Alberni-Tofino road.

There may be some improvements in the offing.

"I'm flying up to have a look at it," said Mr. Gaglardi today.

The road—opened last year after the government linked old logging roads with a million-dollar seven-mile stretch at Kennedy Lake—still is restricted to evening and weekend traffic.

"I'd like to see it more open," said Mr. Gaglardi.

The road is closed for logging traffic between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Mr. Gaglardi didn't say whether the bump-and-gravel surface would be improved, but indicated he would like to see more traffic.

More tourist attractions will be available in the area with the opening later this month of the Sproat Lake Provincial Park.

Thermometer On Heights Said Too Low

City public works committee will try to have the official weather temperature readings taken downtown to enhance Victoria's attraction for tourists.

The question was raised today by committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgell who suggested the official temperature should be taken at City Hall instead of at the meteorological observatory on Gonzales Hill.

The observatory readings, taken on a high hill swept by sea breezes, gave a distorted

HEADQUARTERS OF SAANICH PENINSULA PLAYGROUND

New signs to Sidney are planned to remind the public zipping by on the way to the new government ferries at Swartz Bay that the village is "Headquarters of the Saanich Peninsula Natural Playground," says Chamber of Commerce president Gordon Hulme.

This aerial picture shows the village bounded by the old government wharf at the left and the new federal dock for Washington

State Ferries, far right. Mr. Hulme said Sidney merchants were "delighted" with the new ferry. It would attract more people and business to the whole area. He said new signs will point the way into the village from its western outskirts on the highway.

A spokesman for Washington State Ferries said today the new competition "will be a good thing for everybody."

... HERE AND THERE ...

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

"How on earth do you pronounce Tsawwassen?" asked Mrs. James Le Dreu, charming visitor to this city of odd-sounding ferry boats.

I told her most of us have enough trouble spelling the word without going into phonetics. However, an expert says it should be pronounced "Che-ah-wassen," as it is a Salish word and the sound "che" was very prominent in the ancient Indian tongue.

Furthermore (says my expert) in saying "Che-ah-wassen" you should sound the "Che-ah" rather quickly and then slightly draw the "wassen."

So now you know.

Latest word from George I. Warren, now in darkest Britain: At Chester, Cheshire, he smoked a cigar on the station platform and was mistaken for an American capitalist!

Many talented young women answered Jerry Gossley's appeal in The Times for a leading lady with the right kind of voice and a flair for comedy.

After some head (or ear) scratching, he chose 21-year-old Margaret Thompson, of 1140 Pandora, who came here from Glasgow two years ago and has since won awards in Victoria's Musical Festival.

Jerry describes her as attractive and dark-haired, with a pleasing soprano and a warm personality. He believes she will be a distinct asset to his latest summer Smile Show opening July 22 at the Langham Court Theatre.

It's really amazing what people will advertise for in newspapers. Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Cathedral tells of a man who advertised in these terms:

"Wanted to join—a live, orthodox church where there is a large congregation, hearty singing, comfortable pews and a good welcome.

To which a clergyman replied: "Our Lord does not offer to those who would follow Him comfort and the assurance of large numbers. He offers instead a share in His cross and passion."

B.C. Accepts Decision on Mining Taxes

There won't be any further appeal by B.C. after Supreme Court rejection of its Mineral Property Taxation Act, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said in Vancouver Monday night.

He indicated, however, that new legislation might be coming up to ensure some tax returns for the government from iron ore operations on Vancouver Island and Texada Island.

The Supreme Court of Canada Monday ruled the tax act invalid on constitutional grounds.

The only avenue of appeal left for the province would be through the federal cabinet to the Privy Council in England.

Mr. Bonner said this would not be practical.

The attorney-general was to have flown to Ottawa for Columbia hydro talks with federal officials.

However, he is remaining in Vancouver for the funeral on Wednesday of his wife's father, Rodney R. Newman, who died suddenly Sunday night.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston and a technical team from B.C. will attend the Columbia talks Thursday.

MOVE MADE TOWARD TREE TUBS

City public works committee today recommended that council consider adoption of a bylaw to permit downtown merchants to place flower or tree tubs on city sidewalks.

They are not allowed on city streets at present but requests have been made for permission to install them, committee was told.

The proposed bylaw would regulate the location and size of the tubs.

The tubs, filled with planted flowers or trees, would supplement the city's famed hanging flower baskets to dress up the downtown area, said committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgell.

Hearing Starts Minus Counsellor

Preliminary hearing for a Victoria bookkeeper faced with charges of forgery and seven counts of theft totalling $2,638 began in city police court today without counsel for the defence.

Charges against George Francis Chamberlain, 3326 Cedar Hill, had been remanded eight times since the man's arrest April 21, mostly at request of counsel James Proudfoot, or because of the lawyer's absence.

Today prosecutor T. P. O'Grady was given leave to present formal evidence of three out of town witnesses who were present with other Crown witnesses anticipating that the hearing would proceed.

FURTHER REMAND

Chamberlain was granted a further remand to next Tuesday after he wished new counsel to replace Mr. Proudfoot, who has been ill.

He is charged with thefts from F. W. Shaw Ltd., 2740 Rock Bay, formerly Shaw Sheet Metal, between July, 1959, and January, 1960.

Herbert S. Freeman, South Burnaby, comptroller of Fleck Bros.; Duncan Brown, Vancouver, office manager of F. Drexel Co. Ltd.; and Gordon L. Morrell, Vancouver, credit manager for Crane Ltd., all said their firms had business dealings with the Shaw firm and offered financial records as exhibits.

Cadboro Bay Co-Operates On Sewers

Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association will not oppose Saanich council's proposal to install sewers in the area—as they did last December—providing two conditions are met.

F. J. Leedham, president of the association, said today the association is willing to co-operate with the council so long as a zoning bylaw was passed that set minimum housing standards for the area and the cost was kept to a minimum.

He said the council had drawn up a plan setting a minimum lot size and minimum square footage in certain areas.

The association was conducting its own inquiry into the cost of installing sewers.

"As long as we can keep the cost down we won't object to the installation of sewers," he said.

GERMAN STUDENT PEDALS HERE

Bicycling Barbara Startles Male Eyes

By MICHAEL ROSE

Her name's not Brunhilda, it's Barbara, but she has all the other attributes of the mythical German heroine and rides a bicycle besides.

Miss Barbara Ziervogel pedalled into town Monday night from Seattle leaving a trail of startled male stares behind her, and headed for the YWCA.

The 21-year-old German girl is an exchange student and teacher at the University of Colorado and is spending two weeks touring the Northwest.

"Bicycling," she said, in excellent English, "is the only way to really see the country."

It is the only way to see Miss Ziervogel too, judging by the behavior of motorists as they drove erratically past the "Y."

"Where is your famous sunshine that I have heard about?" she asked. "I am afraid I cannot spend too long in Victoria."

The long legs that have carried her from Colorado showed the obvious effects of sunshine.

CASUAL ATE

"I must be back in Colorado for summer school this weekend," she continued, with a casual air that made it sound easy, "but I would like to stay longer."

Last year she spent her holiday hiking about the countryside but decided that more territory could be covered by bike.

In the fall she will travel south through Mexico and South America before returning to Germany and her home

Red Feather Sets Sights On Record

The annual Community Chest campaign will start on Oct. 3 this year with a record target of $350,000.

Chest directors set the goal at a meeting Monday.

Last year $295,000 was collected. The target was $325,000.

"I am convinced we can do it," said deputy campaign chairman Alex McBain when the 1960 target was approved.

He said it was the Chest's duty to campaign for the amount needed by its member agencies.

The budget committee said the target was needed to cover legitimate budgetary needs totalling $324,448 for member agencies, $9,000 for estimated campaign expenses, $5,000 provision for uncollectable pledges and $20,000 for Chest Administration.

Directors also approved a $2,160 increase in the allotment to Victoria branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association this year to enable it to hire a full time staff employee.

Speed Record From London Set in Jet

Probably the quickest journey in history between London and Victoria was made Monday by Mrs. Doreen Gage, 3325 Cadboro Bay Road. She completed her trip via the polar route in just 12 hours, 25 minutes.

Mrs. Gage left London by Pan American jet 707 at 3:45 p.m. and arrived in Victoria at 8:10 p.m. the same evening after stops at Reykjavik, Iceland, and Seattle. Her wrist watch set to London time actually read 2:45 a.m. when she arrived at Seattle. In another hour she was home in Victoria.

"Despite the rate of travel you don't get any sensation of speed," she said today. "In fact I kept looking out just to make sure we were still moving."

Three weeks ago Mrs. Gage arranged her trip with the help of the George Paulin Travel Agency to visit her 80-year-old mother in Oxfordshire.

She traveled the more conventional route—taking some 24 hours by piston engine aircraft—last year, but will never do so again.

"I thought that trip would never end," she said.

NEW GIMMICK 'Buttonhole The Tourist' Latest Plan

As if tourists don't look enough like tourists—cameras and tendorer trews—the publicity bureau here is planning further distinguishing tourist trademarks.

Favored at the moment, but still not off the assembly line, are several gross of a wee herold figure to be known as "Captain Discovery".

The captain would be pinned on laps of seekers-after-truths at the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, displacing Second World War volunteer buttons or corroded lodge emblems.

Capt. Discovery would be emblematic of discovery—discovery of the treasures to be found on the Island.

Bureau commissioner William Hawkins said "gadgets and gimmicks" are always popular with visitors.

But care will be taken in forming the pins so that local merchants do not become annoyed with an over-pronounced practical theme.

About 300,000 tourists visited Victoria and the Island last year, most with lapels.

Victoria Sikhs Explain Reason For India Riots

Sikhs of Greater Victoria today endorsed necessity for riots in India last Sunday for violent Sikh-religious adherents there and police.

A spokesman for the community, who sounded out the feeling of both religious leaders and temple members, said the riots reflected "our demand" for creation of a 16th Indian state based on the Punjab language.

There was a 1953 agreement with the government that this would be undertaken, but to date there had been no action, he said.

"We don't want to sit and wait. Therefore there is this agitation."

The Sikhs are religious warriors and want what the state promised them—to use the language of their "bible," Punjabi. Present official language is Hindi.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart said today after an informal inquiry, that Cecelia Chippis, 3%, of East Sooke Road, died of natural causes from pneumonia at Jubilee Hospital Monday.

It was reported earlier the cause of death was believed a fall at her Becher Bay home about three weeks ago, but Dr. Hart said injury from this accident was minor and the child had been discharged from hospital meanwhile.

Registrations for supervised activities in Oak Bay parks will take place at Willows School between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Similar registrations were held today at Monterey School. Fee is $2 per family.

Parks to be supervised are Lafayette, Windsor, Carnarvon, Willows and Firemen's.

ASK The TIMES

Q. What is an Aeolian harp?

A. It's a musical curiosity that usually consists of a box of thin wood to which eight to 18 catgut strings on wires are attached, stretched lightly on low bridges at each end and tuned in unison. The box is placed in a window or other opening and wind makes the strings vibrate, sounding musical harmonies. The name is from Aeolus, Greek god of wind.

Q. When did Lawrence of Arabia die?

A. T. E. Lawrence was killed in a motorcycle accident in England in 1935.

All questions should deal with matters of fact and be of general interest. The Times does not undertake to solve conundrums or legal problems. Nor will it attempt to put a value on old coins, stamps or antiques. These should be submitted to dealers.

Ronald Cameron Brighton, 18, of 1036 Redfern, said he was not in a hurry when police stopped his car after an estimated 60-70 miles-an-hour dash through two red lights.

It was just that his car throttle had stuck and things happened too fast for him to do anything about it.

Magistrate William Ostler fined the youth $125 and suspended his driver's licence six months when Brighton pleaded guilty in city police court today to criminally negligent driving.

Annual meeting of the Victoria Music Festival Association will be held Wednesday night at 8 at St. Andrew's Kirk Hall, Courtney Street.

Reports on the successful 1960 festival will be given and election of a board of directors for the ensuing year will be held.

Season ticket holders and any others interested or having any suggestions to offer with regard to operation of the festival, may attend this meeting.

Victoria Camera Club salon slides will be shown Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall.

This showing will be the final one following the 15th international exhibition of color slides just concluded at the Empress Hotel.

Monthly meeting of the Ontario Social Group of Victoria will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at 1400 Broad Street. Films will be included in the program.

Five Japanese students from Keio University, Tokyo, will visit Victoria July 30 and 31 as summer exchange students with University of B.C.

They will attend summer school sessions during their six-week stay.

A new traffic signal installation at Quadra and Johnson, now set for "flashing" warnings to motorists to familiarize them with the addition, will go into regular operation Thursday morning, city traffic head Norman Worsley said today.

The provincial highways department is not allowing any unnecessary delays in areas under construction.

There had been complaints that motorists south of Lady Smith were delayed up to 30 minutes during paving projects.

Three-mile stretches of the Trans-Canada Highway were being surfaced.

Highways Minister Gaglardi said today, "We do our best to see there are no holdups."

Twenty minutes was the maximum delay.

Objects of the proposed $1,000,000 View Street mall and car park bylaw will be outlined Thursday at 8 p.m. in the YWCA at a meeting sponsored by Victoria Ratepayers' Association.

Graduating ceremonies for 24 kindergarten students at St. Patrick's School were held recently at the school.

Teachers outlined progress made by the students throughout the year in experiments with language and group integration.

The Rainbow Corps of the Royal Canadian Sea Cadets will carry out the sunset ceremony at the Legislative Buildings tonight.

The destroyer escort HMCS Skeena carried out surface firing practice in Juan de Fuca Strait, in the Otter Point area, from 9 to 10:30 a.m. today.

Esquimalt Golden Age Club will meet in the Community Hall, Thursday at 2 p.m.

A Few Timely Suggestions For Father's Day Gifts

By PENNY SAVER

If Father's present car is an Oldsmobile he'll be especially happy if next Sunday he receives an English china cigar box with the granddaddy of all Oldsmobiles gracing its lid. It's one design in range that sells at $3.25 and includes vintage Cadillacs, Sunbeams, Fords and White Steeps. Designs have all been approved by the Victorian Car Club of Great Britain. These are the people that sponsor the famous London Brighton run.

Base of box is in rich black while top is in contrasting ivory with car design in black and red.

Another suggestion for Father's Day is a gift box containing six small drinking glasses that's priced at $2. Glasses are all edged in gold leaf and come in three designs. You can choose from London or Scottish scenes or again—the vintage car decor.

If Dad doesn't have a drinking mug of his own he'll be thrilled with one I've seen selling at $2.25. China mugs (pint size) are imported from England and are decorated with well-known Dickens characters.

New power combination corkscrew and bottle openers from Italy are another idea that you should bear in mind when shopping for Dad.

Corkscrew is worked by levers and so eliminates any tugging or pulling at stubborn corks. These come in brass and price tag reads $1.25.

Also from Italy are gift boxes of rainbow hued matches. Each box contains three barrels full of colored matches and sell at 49 cents. Just the right price for a young son or daughter on a restricted budget!

Just for fun, why don't you give Dad one of the old-fashioned corn cob pipes that are priced at $1.25? Whole cob is used for the bowl which has a wooden base. General effect will be that of coziness when Dad puts his slippers on and tries out his new pipe.

For information on any of these items give Penny a ring at EV 23131.

DEAR ABBY

Advertising DOES Work!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: My husband, who is with the army in Germany, sent me a beautiful cuckoo clock. He paid $14 for it and said it would cost about $45 here. All the relatives who have seen it have gone wild over it and want one like it.

Maybe I am selfish but I don't want all his relatives to have the same cuckoo clock I have. It's the only thing in my house that isn't ordinary. Should I tell them I would rather they didn't get one? Or should I say, "OK, go ahead?" They know how much it costs and that my husband can get it for them because, like a fool, I told them. Now what?

DEAR CUCKOO: Since you advertised the price and availability, you can't very well tell them you don't want them to have the cuckoo clocks (unless you want to be a dirty bird). The damage is done. Order the clocks and every time you visit a relative, the cuckoo will come out to remind you every 15 minutes how cuckoo you were for opening your beak.

DEAR ABBY: Is it often that a patient falls in love with her family physician, because I have fallen in love with mine. Ever since I have known him (three years), I have wanted desperately to kiss him. I don't know why. I'm sure I don't affect him the same way.

I would like to get this feeling over with. Would it be wrong to tell him how I feel about him? Or should I just try to forget it? I am 33 and married.

DEAR ABBY: I am writing this for the person who was in doubt about what kind of housework a man who is "all man" should do.

I am not bragging and I am not complaining, but I have washed dishes, dried them, set the table, scrubbed and waxed floors, vacuumed, dusted, made the beds, done the washing, hung it out and ironed it, given the kids their baths, fed the baby, diapered him and put him to bed.

My wife has this routine every day and I wouldn't be much of a "man" if I didn't help her out.

I don't know what the person means by "all man" but I am six feet two, weigh 215 and am the father of two boys and a girl.

DEAR ABBY: Love (the romantic kind) is a mutual thing. What you feel is undoubtedly gratitude and hero-worship, combined with the appeal of forbidden fruit. Don't embarrass him by re-

Young Friends Off to Europe

Miss Susan Lewis, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. C. Lewis of Despard Avenue, and Miss Tricia Edgell, Vancouver, are leaving Wednesday afternoon for Europe. They will fly to Montreal, stopping en route in Calgary and Toronto. From Toronto to Montreal, the pair will be travelling aboard a jet liner, Sunday morning. Miss Lewis and Miss Edgell will sail aboard the S.S. Homeric for France, where they will meet two Victorians, Miss Susan Reid and Miss Sally Gregson. The four girls plan to spend the summer months motoring on the Continent. In the autumn they will tour the British Isles.

Sunday evening, Mr. and Mrs. Lewis entertained at a dinner party for their daughter and visitor, Mrs. John Rowland, Dartmouth, N.S., the former Catherine McElmoyle of this city. There were 20 guests.

Parties for Miss McLeod

Several parties have been arranged to honor popular bride-elect, Miss Laurine McLeod, and her fiancé, Mr. Laurence Johns.

Mrs. Harold G. Robinson and her daughter-in-law, Mrs. Harold M. Robinson, entertained at a dessert party at the former's Richmond Road home, Sunday. Twenty guests attended. Miss McLeod was presented with a dainty Dresden figurine from those present.

Mrs. Wilfrid Johns and Mrs. Harold Johns were hostesses with a recipe shower at the tea hour on Saturday, in the Mount Joy Ave. home of the former, in honor of Miss McLeod.

Each guest brought a favorite recipe and they were presented to the bride-elect with a corsage of red rosebuds. Her mother, Mrs. J. B. McLeod and mother of the groom-elect, Mrs. Harry Johns, received coral and pink carnation corsages respectively. Head table was centred with a miniature bride under an arch of summer flowers. Mrs. Harold M. Robinson and Mrs. Harry Johns presided. Assisting the hostesses were Mrs. G. S. Thornbury and acting as serviteurs were the Misses Jane Gilliland, Marianne Johns, Linda Johns, Barbara McKellar, Betty Thornbury and Margaret MacLeod. There were 35 guests.

Mrs. A. G. Kinnis, Mrs. R. C. Holden and Mrs. W. F. U. Copeman, left to right, members of Victoria Handweavers' Guild, compare notes on variety of weft and weave to be found in materials on display at this week's exhibition in Hudson's Bay Douglas Room. Suit which Mrs. Copeman is wearing is one of three which she has woven and made for herself during recent years.

Weaving Challenges Imagination

Imagination and ingenuity are two of the chief factors to be found in articles displayed at third annual exhibition of the Victoria Handweavers' Guild which opened today in Hudson's Bay's Douglas Room. Ringing up the handwoven curtain on the affair at 2 p.m. was Ray Kersey, British Columbia's industrial commissar until Saturday.

The exhibition continues until Saturday.

Although increased emphasis on texture is part of this year's fashion picture, Mrs. H. L. Gonnason, president of the guild, pointed out texture interest has always been one of the main concerns of the weaver.

"Weaving is one of the finest outlets I know for exercising the imagination. Before we start any yardage there is always that exciting period when you experiment with various materials and colors, making samples until you get the exact effect you're after."

Included in the exhibition, convened by Mrs. A. Anderson, special settings to depict woven articles for the spring, summer and winter seasons. Most outstanding is the winter picture showing a mother and daughter on that most breathless of all nights, Christmas Eve. From the demure little housecoat in scarlet and white, worn by the young Miss Hopeful, to colorful stockings on the mantelpiece, everything is handwoven.

Combinations of cotton, rayon and wool; mixtures of spun silk and tussah silk, and other blends all add variety to this versatile show.

Guild, which has 65 members, including four enthusiastic men, have had successful entries in many national competitions, including the Pacific National Exhibition, Canadian National Exhibition and the London District Weavers' Show which is held annually in London, Ont.

One member, Mrs. Anderson, won an honorable mention for her entry of linen place mats in a New York exhibition last fall.

Object of the exhibition is to stimulate interest in the revived art of weaving. Says Mrs. Gonnason, "I went to one of these annual shows six years ago. Once I found out where I could learn there was no stopping me! Now, like most weavers, I even make my own drapes, suits and dresses and I have a marvelous time doing it."

"If you want a hobby that's thrilling—and practical—try weaving."

Const. Harvey R. Gillis Marries Eastern Girl in Riverside, Ont.

Of interest in Victoria was the recent marriage of Lois Joan, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Cecil A. Humphrey of Windsor, Ont., and Const. Harvey Robert Gillis, formerly of this city, son of Mr. and Mrs. James A. Patterson of Victoria. The early-afternoon ceremony took place in Riverside United Church, Riverside, Ont. Rev. H. Richmond Stuart officiated.

For her marriage, the bride chose a waltz-length gown of Chantilly lace. Appliques of lace and sequins were on the veil which cascaded from a gathered crown of seed pearls and sequins. Her bouquet was white stephanotis centred with an orchid. She was escorted up the aisle by her father.

A waltz-length gown of pink silk organza was worn by matron of honor Mrs. M. Morrison. She carried a bouquet of pink roses.

Const. Ernie Mantel was best man and ushers were Const. George McKinley and Const. Trainor Fraser. All male members of the bridal party wore the red dress uniform of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police. A reception was held at the Rendezvous Tavern. Blue dress of silk chiffon with matching accessories was worn by the bride's mother. Her flowers were in pink tone. Mother of the groom wore a beige sheath-style dress of pure silk and Chantilly lace. Her accessories were in pink. Leaving on honeymoon, the bride wore a silk sheath dress in beige tone, topped with a coat in toast color. Her corsage was an orchid. Newlyweds will make their home in Ottawa.

Work With Aged in City Example to Other Centres

Vancouver and other centres will follow Victoria's lead and form a Silver Threads Society as part of their programs of work with the aged. This was announced by Mrs. May Campbell at Monday afternoon's meeting of Local Council of Women in the Public Library's Music Room. Mrs. Campbell was council's delegate at the extension department of the University of British Columbia conference of ageing in Vancouver.

Mrs. E. A. Shaw reported on the National Council of Women convention at Niagara Falls, Ont. "Miss E. Bruce, World Refugee Year chairman, told council that 230,000 refugees had been admitted to Canada since the last war."

Mrs. C. MacLean reported on recent Mental Health Conference in Victoria and stressed need of a White Cross centre and education of employers to the problem of people returning from a mental hospital.

Formation of a Conservation Council in Victoria was reported by Mrs. A. Skinner and Mrs. E. L. Johns was appointed chairman of conservation and natural resources for Local Council.

Miss Marion Storey, Mrs. E. Nickells and Mrs. I. S. Burt will co-convene annual tea to be held in the Hudson's Bay's Douglas Room on June 24. Mrs. Bert Noel and Mrs. N. Smith will convene home-cooking stall.

Proceeds of a tea to be held at the Richardson Street home of Mrs. Noel, Saturday, will be donated to the World Refugee Fund.

'Personal Look' In for Fall

NEW YORK (UPI)—A manufacturer named Larry Aldrich neatly sewed up the news in the fall and winter fashions from New York's garment centre.

Aldrich said the day he opened his collection: "There is no one look, except the personal look. No radical changes, only subtle ones."

Now that all the major fashion houses have completed their previews for reporters and store buyers, it looks like Aldrich was right on the nose. There is something for everyone—all a woman has to do is pick the silhouette most becoming to her.

Gifts for Father's Day

FROM STANFIELD'S

Grand Slam Golf Shirt

Better start hinting now—and maybe your family will give you one of these wonderful golf shirts for Father's Day. Any time you're doing anything where you want lots of freedom for action—or comfort for just loafing, then a Stanfield's Grand-Slam Golf Shirt is the shirt. The patented "free swing" underarm gusset stretches with every body movement, gives you complete freedom without pulling or binding. And however active you are, the honey-comb mesh fabric lets perspiration evaporate gently, without discomfort. Stanfield's Grand-Slam Golf Shirt is machine washable. It's guaranteed not to shrink. Wide range of colours and they are colourfast. S. M. & L. sizes, about

TV with Real

90-Minute Little League Documentary at 8:30 on Channel 5

By PHIL LEE, Times TV Editor
CATCHING UP—Although the camera coverage of the actual 191st running of the Queen's Plate from Toronto's new Woodbine was competent enough, I thought CBC commentators were too often off the pace of the horses.

For one thing, as the camera covered the entrants walking up to the starting gate they gave viewers the names of the horses but rarely the names of the riders. At the conclusion of the race someone neglected to post the prices for their punting viewers. Frankly, I felt as those handling Canada's top race meeting had neglected to do their homework.

However, nothing could take away the thrill of watching Victoria Park running away from the field. Perhaps the only single more exciting object was sportswriter-televangelist Jim or should I say James—Coleman sporting his ritzier ritzier top.

While watching the Pender Robinson schmozzle the other night I began to think that free TV wasn't so bad after all.

According to the latest word Telemeter subscribers of the Toronto suburb of Etobicoke may have to ante up $5 to see the Patterson-Johnson fight on June 20. But even if it can be sold for only $2 (as suggested by Telemeter officials) it proves one point. When the pay-TV boys have you on the hook they will squeeze the highest tariff from you possible. The more you want to see something the more you will have to pay for it.

I have been a semi-proponent for pay TV (a percentage of the channels only) for some time but now I'm not too sure.

Martin Manulis has confirmed that he is being bought by CBS-TV to return to his old "Playhouse 90" producer's job next season. It seems as though the famous series may not be through after all but will be shown on a once-a-month basis. Only time will tell.

A 90-MINUTE CONDENSATION OF NBC-TV's Second World War series, the multi-prize winning "Victory at Sea," is being edited for presentation by the network next season. Lever Brothers company has bought sponsorship in the full-hour colorcast series, "Moment of Fear," which begins on NBC-TV July 1. Don Watt has been named administrative assistant in charge of the Seattle studio of KTNB-TV.

The world heavyweight championship bout between Ingemar Johansson of Sweden and Floyd Patterson of the U.S.A. will be broadcast over CBC radio at 7:05 p.m. June 20. It will not be televised.

LONG, LONELY VOYAGE

British Lt.-Col. H. G. Hasler watches the wind fill his Chinese-type sail as he sets out in his tiny craft from Plymouth, Eng., at start of solo trans-Atlantic race to New York. Three other yachts, each with one man aboard, left Plymouth simultaneously with the same destination. Race is expected to last at least two months. (AP Wirephoto.)

Airliner, 13 Aboard Vanishes Over Alaska

SEATTLE (AP) — A Pacific Northern Airlines four-engine Constellation carrying eight passengers and a crew of five vanished today between Cordova and Anchorage, Alaska.

OFF WEDNESDAY

Capacity Loads Seen On Ferries

"Standing room only" is expected Wednesday when the new government ferries open public service between Vancouver Island and the Mainland.

The ships Sidney and Tsawwassen will simultaneously inaugurate the toll authority service at 7 a.m.

"There has been a tremendous response from the public," ferry manager Monty Aldous said today.

Approach roads and the terminal buildings at Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen, the two points linked, are not ready, but this won't impede the service, said Mr. Aldous.

"We'll be operating." First "Royal Victorian" bus for Swartz Bay will leave the Victoria depot at Vancouver Island Coach Lines at 6.10 a.m.

"The phone has hardly stopped ringing," said Mr. Aldous, since last Thursday's pre-inaugural run of the Sidney for newsmen and tourist officials.

The Swartz Bay cutoff from the highway at Sandown Park racetrack is not fully paved.

"It should be finished within a week—barring bad weather," Highways Minister, Gagliardi reported.

The terminal buildings will be ready in about two weeks. In the meantime ticket offices will be set up in trailers.

Fares for the new ferry are $2 per person and $5 per car each way.

There will be eight trips leaving each terminus daily, starting at 7 a.m.

WIRE BRIEFS

Air Strike Banned

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—Federal Judge Joseph Lieb ordered Eastern Air Lines' striking pilots back to work today. He told them they must fly even with federal inspectors in the seats behind them.

Cuban Rebel to Die

SANTIAGO, Cuba (AP)—A Cuban military tribunal today sentenced insurgent ex-Capt. Manuel Beaton, 30, and two accomplices to death for crimes against the Castro regime.

Reds Can See Test

New Cease-Fire Bid

PARIS (Reuters)—President de Gaulle will renew his invitation to Algerian insurgents to discuss a cease-fire when he makes a televised speech to night, informed sources said.

U.S. Orders A-Subs

WASHINGTON (UPI)—The U.S. Navy today ordered construction of four nuclear-powered submarines at a total cost of $85,996,359.

Firm Pleads Guilty

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. today pleaded guilty to federal charges of price-fixing and bid-rigging in the sale of heavy electrical equipment. Twelve other companies indicted with Allis-Chalmers pleaded innocent.

False Claims Charged

NEW YORK (AP)—Manufacturers and promoters of regimen tablets were accused by a grand jury today of falsely advertising the product as a reducing drug.

Canada Not Yet 'Sovereign'

House Leaders Rap Constitutional Ties

Should Change BNA Act Here

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today it is inconsistent with Canada's sovereignty that Parliament cannot amend the constitution.

He told the Commons that Canada is the only old member of the Commonwealth that must seek an amendment to its Constitution from the British Parliament.

"It isn't because the British Parliament is anxious to retain this power," he said. "It is because Canadians have been unable to agree on a method of amendment that would be generally acceptable."

Mr. Diefenbaker introduced a resolution asking the British Parliament to amend the British North America Act of 1867, requiring all County, District, and Superior Court judges to retire at 75. Supreme Court of Canada judges have had a fixed retirement age since 1927.

BOTH MUST PASS

The prime minister said the new provision, if passed by the Canadian and British Parliaments, would come into effect March 1, 1961.

"It is a political paradox and inconsistent with Canada's status that we should be required to obtain amendments to our Constitution by an address to the Queen that she will cause amendments to be laid before the Mother of Parliaments at Westminster," he said.

"Up to the present it has been found difficult, if not impossible, to secure the agreement of the provinces to any method of amendment."

All provinces have agreed to the new retirement age for judges, he added.

Opposition leader Pearson said that until the federal and provincial governments reach agreement on amending the constitution, Canadians can't really talk about complete sovereignty and independence.

EMBARRASSING PROBLEM

The inability of Canada to solve this problem was becoming more and more an embarrassment to the British Parliament.

The Liberal leader said he doesn't object to a retirement age of 75 for judges but that he does object to such retirement for judges already appointed for life.

This was a breach of contract between the judges and the state.

Mr. Pearson recalled that former Conservative leader R. B. Bennett had objected to similar Liberal legislation in 1927 applying to judges of the Supreme and Exchequer courts. Later, an annuity had been provided so these judges would not suffer financially.

Mr. Pearson said that in 1933 the Conservative government tried to force retirement of superior court judges at 75 by reducing their salaries at that age. The measure had been killed by the Senate.

MPs Facing Long Summer Session

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker plainly indicated today that Parliament will remain in session until the government's full legislative program has been dealt with.

His statement followed the assessment of Opposition Leader Pearson that to complete the scheduled business will take at least until the end of July.

The prime minister killed hopes of a summer adjournment, urged on him by Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, by saying he expects that before the Commons concludes the sittings "as a continuous session," it will have covered the legislative program he outlined.

Besides a variety of measures at different stages of passage, Mr. Diefenbaker enumerated these yet to be introduced:

1. The Bill of Rights.
2. A bill establishing a federal forestry department.
3. Amendments to the Canada Elections Act.

OFF TO SCHOOL next fall goes Princess Anne who will be 10 Aug. 15. Up to now she has been tutored at Buckingham Palace with two friends but it has been decided she will be sent, like her brother, to a boarding school.

'SERIOUS DOUBTS' are expressed by evangelist Billy Graham as to whether Americans have the "moral and spiritual capability to match the challenge of a dedicated, disciplined communism." Graham was addressing a group of U.S. military leaders Monday.

REPORTED DEAD is "Red Aana" Pauker, 66, former foreign minister of Russian satellite Romania. Official sources would neither confirm nor deny the report. She was downgraded in the Red hierarchy in 1952 as a "deviationist."

FULL INDEPENDENCE of all Africans would be the aim of a "second Bandung conference" called for by Ethiopia's Emperor Haile Selassie in a keynote speech to a meeting of Independent African states at Addis Ababa today.

IDENTIFIED

'Blonde Widow' In Trunk

TORONTO (CP) — A body found crammed into a trunk last week in a Newfoundland railway express office was identified today as that of Mrs. Marjorie E. Scott, blonde widow of a former convict who died in 1958 at New Westminster, B.C.

Police at Kingston, Ont., said the 37-year-old woman had been married to Clement Scott, the former convict, and had been arrested twice herself in Kingston. She had been released each time on probation.

For some time, they said, she had been living intermittently in Toronto and Kingston with another criminal with a long record.

The body of Mrs. Scott, described as a shapely peroxide blonde waitress originally from Nanaimo, Ont., was found in the trunk at Argentea, Nfld., by an express agent.

NO CLUE SO FAR

The trunk had been sent C.O.D. from Toronto. So far, police have no line on the shipper.

The woman was identified only today.

Toronto police said the woman was identified by matching the fingerprints from the partially decomposed body with those on RCMP files in Ottawa. She had been sentenced at Whitby in 1944 to three months in reformatory for theft.

Born in Nanaimo, near Kingston, she was the former Marjorie Sagar. She came to Toronto from Windsor to work as a waitress, it was reported.

The trunk, shipped from Toronto last month, was opened last Tuesday by Tom Donovan, a CNR express agent. It was sent collect to a Mrs. Williams in Argentea, a United States naval base, about 85 miles west of St. John's.

Cause of the death has not yet been determined, although speculation is she may have died either of poisoning or asphyxiation.

LOOK FOR RELATIVES

The Metropolitan Toronto homicide squad and Ontario Provincial Police have started a search for relatives or others who might give further information on the woman's background.

Police said today a seaman may also be involved in the slaying, which until now has provided scant clues for investigators. A towel, found among 60 articles of clothing and bedding in the trunk, proved to be of navy issue type. The name "Huntley," printed on the towel, is believed that of a shipping company which ran supplies to United States military bases, including Argentea, during the Second World War.

ANGRY WALKER 'READY TO GO'

BRAZIL, Ind. (UPI)—British hiker Dr. Barbara Moore, 56-year-old vegetarian, said today, her trouble-plagued trans-continental trek stopped when she was hit by a car Monday while walking on the wrong side of the road.

Angry over the accident, the 56-year-old vegetarian said she hoped to be out of the hospital and back on her way soon.

Doctors said she seemed to be suffering more from sunburn than from the auto accident. She was treated for minor abrasions on her right arm and left ankle.

M' Uncle Zeke's like a Member of Parliament—he figgers on sittin' all summer too.

Th' ferries start runnin' tomorrow. As Mister Gagliardi might say, "We'll commence our service by singin'..."

One swallow o' rainwater don't make a summer.

Worried Grandmothers

Many letters from unhappy grandmothers who are much worried because they feel that their grandchildren are not receiving good food or good medical care. Perhaps grandmother sees the children each evening watching on television one murder or near hanging or knockdown sad on brawl after another. She wonders why her daughter is going to such effort to teach her children how to murder people and how to become callous to scenes of murder.

Alvarez

Or, grandmother sees a child with flaring ears, or a squinting eye, or a bad birth mark or a receding chin. She wonders why her daughter does not get the defect operated on quickly, before the child's temperament is badly injured. She wonders if I would write her daughter and tell her what she surely should be doing.

I sympathize deeply with these wise grandmothers, and I wish I could help them, but I am sure I had better not "start anything," and I suspect that grandmother had better not fuss too much. If the daughter or son cannot take a quiet and tactful suggestion, more talk probably will only anger them. If I were the grandmother and had a little money put by, I might offer to pay for the necessary operation. Certainly, it then would be a very stupid or mulish or wrong-headed daughter who would refuse the tremendously important gift to her child. Usually, in the cases in which parents have no money for a much-needed cosmetic operation on their child, a kindly plastic surgeon can soon be found who will do the work for nothing.

Men want to know what to do about a chronic inflammation of the prostate gland. The first thing the man needs to do is to consult a physician who will express some secretion from the gland, look at it under a microscope, and see if there are many pus cells present. Then he must decide if the pus cells in the secretion are producing any symptoms, or are causing the discomfort the person is complaining about. Usually, there is little sense in spending much time and money treating a disease that the man either hasn't got, or which is not bothering him, or is not going to turn into anything.

fed anything, but a few feel distress deep in their pelvis under their urinary bladder. Some may worry about a drop of gummy secretion when they find each morning at the outlet of the urethra a tube that carries urine out of the bladder.

The treatment for prostatitis consists, usually, of massaging the prostate and expressing the secretion. The doctor examines the secretion under a microscope and when it contains only a few pus cells, he will pronounce his patient cured.

One of the commonest complaints, especially of older persons, is of head noises, often with dizziness, and occasionally with nausea and vomiting. Usually the first question in the physician's mind is, are the noises due to disease in the ears or are they arising in some area of the brain-injured by a "little stroke"? If the person is under 40 he is likely to have ear trouble, but if he is over 60 he is very likely to have arteriosclerosis in his brain.

If he has Meniere's disease, which is due to an abnormality in the lining of the balancing mechanism in his inner ears, then, sooner or later, he must have some loss of hearing. If a man of 60 who has had a bad dizzy spell and now has ear noises is told by a good and honest ear man that his hearing is normal, then he cannot have Meniere's disease, and there is no sense in his travelling around the country from one ear man to another.

With the sudden spells of Meniere's disease, a young person will feel that he or she is spinning around; he may be thrown to the floor where he may vomit. The old person who has had perhaps one dizzy and woozy spell usually will say that there was no spinning around—only a feeling of loss of the normal good and comfortable sense of balance.

Often the doctor can tell that the brain was injured because, during the spell, the man saw double, or for a few hours an arm was numb and clumsy, or for some weeks afterwards his memory was poor, or he was irritable, irascible and unreasonable, and perhaps unable to work.

Unfortunately, we doctors haven't any very good treatment for either Meniere's disease or the little strokes. We may give the patient unsalted food, or we may give nicotinic acid or histamine or anti-histamines, but the results are seldom spectacular. The patient's greatest hope will be that his disease will go away by itself and leave him alone.

Hospital Premium Boost Tory Trick Says CCFer

TORONTO (CP)—Progressive Conservative governments across Canada are boosting hospital premiums to try to convince the public it cannot afford full health insurance coverage, Ontario CCF leader MacDonald said today.

Mr. MacDonald said in a press statement it was no coincidence that the Manitoba government boosted premium rates 50 per cent last Thursday, the day after the Saskatchewan election, and an increase is pending in Ontario.

Try the Other Way 'Round

Sometimes we can get better results for the effort we expend by reversing our procedures.

Aphides, for instance, are quite troublesome in this area, and ants are to be found in most gardens.

The aphides are considered pests which should be destroyed because we can see the results of their presence on our plants, but the ants are classed as industrious, intelligent and harmless insects.

Therefore, as gardeners, we wage constant war on the aphides and allow the ants to go their way.

Were we to reverse this procedure and destroy the ants first, we would possibly obtain better control of the aphides.

You may have noticed that when ants are found scurrying up and down the stems and over the foliage of plants there are aphides under the leaves or clustered at the soft growing tips. This combination is particularly evident on broad beans and plum trees.

The presence of aphides is indicated on indoor plants by a sticky substance found on the foliage which is followed by a black or sooty mould.

The sticky substance is called honeydew and it is as important to the rearing of young ants as milk is to an infant.

Therefore the ants maintain a "herd" of aphides as humans do cows, carrying them to the nest, milking them to feed the young, and then returning them to pasture on the plants.

Once the ant nests are destroyed, together with the aphides therein, we get better control of the infestations on our plants because the ants are not present to replace what we have expended effort to remove.

'Wreck' Not Wreck, Not Canadian

SINGAPORE (AP)—A British Navy spokesman said that what was first believed to be the shipwreck of a Canadian cargo vessel on a sandbank north of Borneo has turned out to be only a difficulty in a Filipino firm's salvage operation which has been going on for months.

He said distress signals received here Monday were interpreted as indicating that a freighter named Lake Barnaby had run aground and broken in two. The British frigate Woodbridge Haven raced to the scene after RAF planes spotted the wreck.

But the spokesman said investigation showed the vessel was British and had been wrecked perhaps as long as a year ago. The distress signals came from the crew of a Manila salvage firm. The salvage crew had cut away the stern half of the vessel and a tug was attempting a tow.

MISSILE WORKERS VOTE ON OFFER BY CONVAIR

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP)—Convair machinists were voting today on an offer that could ease the missile industry's labor troubles as strike deadlines neared for 50,000 other workers.

The International Association of Machinists began polling 30,000 members Monday night on the offer that involves field wage rates, per diem pay, relation benefits and seniority at Atlas missile bases where the machinists walked out eight days ago.

The strike, stretching from Cape Canaveral in Florida to California's Vandenberg Air Force Base, has tied up the sites that test and fire the Atlas—the United States' only operational intercontinental missile.

HEADQUARTERS OF SAANICH PENINSULA PLAYGROUND

New signs to Sidney are planned to remind the public zipping by on the way to the new government ferries at Swartz Bay that the village is "Headquarters of the Saanich Peninsula Natural Playground," says Chamber of Commerce president Gordon Hulme. This aerial picture shows the village bounded by the old government wharf at the left and the new federal dock for Washington

State Ferries, far right. Mr. Hulme said Sidney merchants were "delighted" with the new ferry. It would attract more people and business to the whole area. He said new signs will point the way into the village from its western outskirts on the highway. A spokesman for Washington State Ferries said today the new competition "will be a good thing for everybody."

New Tofino Link Gets Air Survey

LATE REPORT TOUCHES OFF SEARCH ALERT

A short-lived alert for an "overdue" Victoria-based float plane was called off Monday evening when Newton D. Cameron, 1011 Moss, contacted air-sea rescue officials at Sea Island.

Mr. Cameron, president of Sooke Lake Lumber Ltd., was presumed missing when he did not confirm his arrival from a Port Angeles trip as scheduled in his flight plan.

"I landed at Esquimalt Harbor all right but I was an hour late in reporting," he said today.

Gagliardi Hopes for Improvement

Highways Minister P. A. Gagliardi Wednesday will get a bird's eye view of the Alberni-Tofino road.

There may be some improvements in the offing.

"I'm flying up to have a look at it," said Mr. Gagliardi today.

The road—opened last year after the government linked old logging roads with a million-dollar seven-mile stretch at Kennedy Lake—still is restricted to evening and weekend traffic.

"I'd like to see it more open," said Mr. Gagliardi.

The road is closed for logging traffic between 8 a.m. and 5 p.m.

Mr. Gagliardi didn't say whether the bump-and-gravel surface would be improved, but indicated he would like to see more traffic.

More tourist attractions will be available in the area with the opening later this month of the Sproat Lake Provincial Park.

Thermometer On Heights Said Too Low

City public works committee will try to have the official weather temperature readings taken downtown to enhance Victoria's attraction for tourists.

The question was raised today by committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow who suggested the official temperature should be taken at City Hall instead of at the meteorological observatory on Gonzales Hill.

The observatory readings, taken on a high hill swept by sea breezes, gave a distorted

Due to the varied terrain of Victoria—hills, trees and areas near the sea—it is "difficult" to establish any temperature that holds good for the entire area, Weatherman William Mackie said today.

Downtown temperature at noon today was 59 degrees and at the weather observatory 57.

Red Feather Sets Sights On Record

The annual Community Chest campaign will start on Oct. 3 this year with a record target of $350,000.

Chest directors set the goal at a meeting Monday.

Last year $295,000 was collected. The target was $325,000.

"I am convinced we can do it," said deputy campaign chairman Alec McBain when the 1960 target was approved. He said it was the Chest's duty to campaign for the amount needed by its member agencies.

The budget committee said the target was needed to cover legitimate budgetary needs totalling $324,448 for member agencies, $9,000 for estimated campaign expenses, $5,000 provision for uncollectable pledges and $20,000 for Chest Administration.

Directors also approved a $2,160 increase in the allotment to Victoria branch of the Canadian Mental Health Association this year to enable it to hire a full time staff employee.

picture of cold summers to potential tourists and deterred many from coming, he maintained.

But Ald. J. L. W. McLean took the opposite view. He said the lower temperatures here attracted many Prairie visitors who wanted to escape searing temperatures on the plains.

He also said a downtown temperature would be distorted too because the concentration of bricks and concrete sent the thermometer higher than it was in Victoria generally.

One compromise solution suggested was splitting the difference between readings at Gonzales Hill and City Hall.

City engineer J. C. Garnett was instructed to discuss the issue with Victoria meteorological officials and report back to the committee.

NEW GIMMICK

'Buttonhole The Tourist' Latest Plan

As if tourists don't look enough like tourists—cameras and t-shirts—the publicity bureau here is planning further distinguishing tourist trademarks.

Favored at the moment, but still not off the assembly line, are several gross of a wee heroic figure to be known as "Captain Discovery".

The captain would be pinned on lapels of seers-after-tourist-trusts at the Victoria and Island Publicity Bureau, displacing Second World War volunteer buttons or corroded lodge emblems.

Capt. Discovery would be emblematic of discovery—discovery of the treasures to be found on the Island.

Bureau commissioner William Hawkins said "gadgets and gimmicks" are always popular with visitors.

But care will be taken in forming the pins so that local merchants do not become annoyed with an over-pronounced piratical theme.

About 300,000 tourists visited Victoria and the Island last year, most with lapels.

Victoria Sikhs Explain Reason For India Riots

Sikhs of Greater Victoria today endorsed necessity for riots in India last Sunday between Sikh religious adherents there and police.

A spokesman for the community, who sounded out the feeling of both religious leaders and temple members, said the riots reflected "our demand" for creation of a 16th Indian state based on the Punjabi language.

There was a 1953 agreement with the government that this would be undertaken, but to date there had been no action, he said.

"We don't want to sit and wait. Therefore there is this agitation."

The Sikhs are religious warriors and want what the state promised them—to use the language of their "bible," Punjabi. Present official language is Hindi.

... HERE AND THERE ...

With NORMAN CRIBBENS

"How on earth do you pronounce Tsawwassen?" asked Mrs. James le Dreu, charming visitor to this city of odd-sounding ferry boats.

I told her most of us have enough trouble spelling the word without going into phonetics. However, an expert says it should be pronounced "Che-ah-wassen," as it is a Salish word and the sound "che" was very prominent in the ancient Indian tongue.

Furthermore (says my expert) in saying "Che-ah-wassen" you should sound the "Che-ah" rather quickly and then slightly drawl the "wassen."

So now you know.

Latest word from George L. Warren, now in darkest Britain: At Chester, Cheshire, he smoked a cigar on the station platform and was mistaken for an American capitalist!

Many talented young women answered Jerry Gossley's appeal in The Times for a leading lady with the right kind of voice and a flair for comedy.

After some head (or ear) scratching, he chose 21-year-old Margaret Thompson, of 1140 Pandora, who came here from Glasgow two years ago and has since won awards in Victoria's Musical Festival.

Jerry describes her as attractive and dark-haired, with a pleasing soprano and a warm personality. He believes she will be a distinct asset to his latest summer Smile Show opening July 22 at the Langham Court Theatre.

It's really amazing what people will advertise for in newspapers. Dean Brian Whitlow of Christ Church Cathedral tells of a man who advertised in these terms:

"Wanted to join—a live, orthodox church where there is a large congregation, hearty singing, comfortable pews and a good welcome."

To which a clergyman replied: "Our Lord does not offer to those who would follow Him comfort and the assurance of large numbers. He offers instead a share in His cross and passion."

B.C. Accepts Decision on Mining Taxes

There won't be any further appeal by B.C. after Supreme Court rejection of its Mineral Property Taxation Act, Attorney-General Robert Bonner said in Vancouver Monday night.

He indicated, however, that new legislation might be coming up to ensure some tax returns for the government from iron ore operations on Vancouver Island and Texada Island.

The Supreme Court of Canada Monday ruled the tax act invalid on constitutional grounds.

The only avenue of appeal left for the province would be through the federal cabinet to the Privy Council in England.

Mr. Bonner said this would not be practical.

The attorney-general was to have flown to Ottawa for Columbia hydro talks with federal officials.

However, he is remaining in Vancouver for the funeral on Wednesday of his wife's father, Rodney R. Newman, who died suddenly Sunday night.

Lands and Forests Minister Ray Williston and a technical team from B.C. will attend the Columbia talks Thursday.

MOVE MADE TOWARD TREE TUBS

City public works committee today recommended that council consider adoption of a bylaw to permit downtown merchants to place flower or tree tubs on city sidewalks.

They are not allowed on city streets at present but requests have been made for permission to install them, committee was told.

The proposed bylaw would regulate the location and size of the tubs.

The tubs, filled with planted flowers or trees, would supplement the city's famed hanging flower baskets to dress up the downtown area, said committee chairman Ald. Geoffrey Edgelow.

Hearing Starts Minus Counsellor

Preliminary hearing for a Victoria bookkeeper faced with charges of forgery and seven counts of theft totalling $2,838 began in city police court today without counsel for the defence.

Charges against George Francis Chamberlain, 3326 Cedar Hill, had been remanded eight times since the man's arrest April 21, mostly at request of counsel James Proudfoot, or because of the lawyer's absence.

Today, prosecutor T. P. O'Grady was given leave to present formal evidence of three out of town witnesses who were present with other Crown witnesses anticipating that the hearing would proceed.

FURTHER REMAND

Chamberlain was granted a further remand to next Tuesday after he wished new counsel to replace Mr. Proudfoot, who has been ill.

He is charged with thefts from F. W. Shaw Ltd., 2740 Rock Bay, formerly Shaw Sheet Metal, between July, 1959, and January, 1960.

Herbert S. Freeman, South Burnaby, comptroller of Fleck Bros.; Duncan Brown, Vancouver, office manager of F. Drexel Co. Ltd.; and Gordon L. Morrell, Vancouver, credit manager for Crane Ltd., all said their firms had business dealings with the Shaw firm and offered financial records as exhibits.

Cadboro Bay Co-Operates On Sewers

Cadboro Bay Ratepayers' Association will not oppose Saanich council's proposal to install sewers in the area—as they did last December—providing two conditions are met.

F. J. Leedham, president of the association, said today the association is willing to co-operate with the council so long as a zoning bylaw was passed that set minimum housing standards for the area and the cost was kept to a minimum.

He said the council had been most co-operative and had drawn up a plan setting a minimum lot size and minimum square footage in certain areas.

The association was conducting its own inquiry into the cost of installing sewers.

"As long as we can keep the cost down we won't object to the installation of sewers," he said.

BARBARA ZIERVOGEL ... traffic hazard?

GERMAN STUDENT PEDALS HERE

Bicycling Barbara Startles Male Eyes

By MICHAEL ROSE

Her name's not Brunhilde, it's Barbara, but she has all the other attributes of the mythical German heroine and rides a bicycle besides.

Miss Barbara Ziervogel pedalled into town Monday night from Seattle leaving a trail of startled male stares behind her, and headed for the YWCA.

The 21-year-old German girl is an exchange student and teacher at the University of Colorado and is spending two weeks touring the Northwest.

"Bicycling," she said, in excellent English, "is the only way to really see the country."

It is the only way to see Miss Ziervogel too, judging by the behavior of motorists as they drove erratically past the "Y."

"Where is your famous sunshine that I have heard about?" she asked. "I am afraid I cannot spend too long in Victoria."

The long legs that have carried her from Colorado showed the obvious effects of sunshine.

CASUAL AIR

"I must be back in Colorado for summer school this weekend," she continued, with a casual air that made it sound easy, "but I would like to stay longer."

Last year she spent her holiday hiking about the countryside but decided that more territory could be covered by bike.

In the fall she will travel south through Mexico and South America before returning to Germany and her home

Speed Record From London Set in Jet

Probably the quickest journey in history between London and Victoria was made Monday by Mrs. Doreen Gage, 3325 Cadboro Bay Road. She completed her trip via the polar route in just 12 hours, 25 minutes.

Mrs. Gage left London by Pan American jet 707 at 3:45 p.m. and arrived in Victoria at 8:10 p.m. the same evening after stops at Reykjavik, Iceland, and Seattle. Her wrist watch set to London time actually read 2:45 a.m. when she arrived at Seattle. In another hour she was home in Victoria.

"Despite the rate of travel you don't get any sensation of speed," she said today. "In fact I kept looking out just to make sure we were still moving."

Three weeks ago Mrs. Gage arranged her trip with the help of the George Paulin Travel Agency to visit her 80-year-old mother in Oxfordshire. She traveled the more conventional route—taking some 24 hours by piston engine aircraft—last year, but will never do so again.

"I thought that trip would never end," she said.

TOPICS OF THE DAY

Coroner Dr. E. C. Hart said today after an informal inquiry, that Cecelia Chipps, 3½, of East Sooke Road, died of natural causes from pneumonia at Jubilee Hospital Monday.

It was reported earlier the cause of death was believed a fall at her Becher Bay home about three weeks ago, but Dr. Hart said injury from this accident was minor and the child had been discharged from hospital meanwhile.

Registrations for supervised activities in Oak Bay parks will take place at Willows School between 2 p.m. and 4 p.m. Wednesday.

Similar registrations were held today at Monterey School. Fee is $2 per family. Parks to be supervised are Lafayette, Windsor, Carnarvon, Willows and Firemen's.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. What is an Aeolian harp?

A. It's a musical curiosity that usually consists of a box of thin wood to which eight to 18 caugut strings on wires are attached, stretched lightly on low bridges, at each end and tuned in unison. The box is placed in a window or other opening and wind makes the strings vibrate, sounding musical harmonies. The name is from Aeolus, Greek god of wind.

Q. When did Lawrence of Arabia die? R.G.

A. T. E. Lawrence was killed in a motorcycle accident in England in 1935.

Ronald Cameron Brighton, 18, of 1036 Redfern, said he was not in a hurry when police stopped his car after an estimated 60-70 miles-an-hour dash through two red lights.

It was just that his car throttle had stuck and things happened too fast for him to do anything about it.

Magistrate William Ostler fined the youth $125 and suspended his driver's licence six months when Brighton pleaded guilty in city police court today to criminally negligent driving.

Annual meeting of the Victoria Music Festival Association will be held Wednesday night at 8 at St. Andrew's Kirk Hall, Courtney Street.

Reports on the successful 1960 festival will be given and election of a board of directors for the ensuing year will be held.

Season ticket holders and any others interested or having any suggestions to offer with regard to operation of the festival, may attend this meeting.

Victoria Camera Club salon slides will be shown Wednesday at 8 p.m. in Christ Church Cathedral Memorial Hall.

This showing will be the final one following the 15th international exhibition of color slides just concluded at the Empress Hotel.

Monthly meeting of the Ontario Social Group of Victoria will be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday at 1400 Broad Street. Films will be included in the program.

Five Japanese students from Keio University, Tokyo, will visit Victoria July 30 and 31 as summer exchange students with University of B.C.

They will attend summer school sessions during their six-week stay.

A new traffic signal installation at Quadra and Johnson, wsoet for "flashing" warnings to motorists to familiarize them with the addition, will go into regular operation Thursday morning, city traffic head Norman Worsley said today.

The provincial highways department is not allowing any unnecessary delays in areas under construction.

There had been complaints that motorists south of Ladysmith were delayed up to 30 minutes during paving projects.

Three-mile stretches of the Trans-Canada Highway were being surfaced.

Highways Minister Gagliardi said today, "We do our best to see there are no holdups."

Twenty minutes was the maximum delay.

Objects of the proposed $1,000,000 View Street mall and car-park bylaw will be outlined Thursday at 8 p.m. in the YWCA at a meeting sponsored by Victoria Ratepayers' Association.

Graduating ceremonies for 24 kindergarten students at St. Patrick's School were held recently at the school.

Teachers outlined progress made by the students throughout the year in experiments with language and group integration.

Emergency Rule In Congo State

ELISABETHVILLE, Belgian Congo (Reuters)—A state of emergency was decreed today in the rich mining province of the Katanga.

The governor proclaimed the emergency following "precise information" received by the authorities "concerning plans tending to create very shortly an illegal situation constituting a threat to public order."

State Medicine Opposed by CMA

BANFF, Alta. (CP)—The Canadian Medical Association said today it believes that a tax-supported, comprehensive medical-care program is neither necessary nor desirable.

Saskatchewan representatives supported the stand.

Bomarc on Time

OTTAWA (CP)—Informed opinion here is that the Bomarc anti-aircraft missile will go into service in Canada at about the time originally scheduled—late 1961.

Defence planners appear confident that the United States Senate and House of Representatives will work out a Bomarc financial program large enough to provide for 10 bases in the northeast, including the two near North Bay, Ont., and Mont Laurier, Que.

Fuchs Spurned

JERUSALEM (AP)—Atom spy Klaus Fuchs asked a professor at Jerusalem's Hebrew University to help him catch up with developments in nuclear physics, but the professor refused.

Wheat Payment

OTTAWA (CP)—Announcement will be made Wednesday of the amount of the Canadian Wheat Board's final payment on the 1958-59 Prairie wheat pool. Trade Minister Churchill informed the Commons today.

OFF WEDNESDAY

Capacity Loads Seen On Ferries

"Standing room only" is expected Wednesday when the new government ferries open public service between Vancouver Island and the Mainland.

The ships Sidney and Tsawwassen will simultaneously inaugurate the toll authority service at 7 a.m.

"There has been a tremendous response from the public," ferry manager Monty Aldous said today.

Approach roads and the terminal buildings at Swartz Bay and Tsawwassen, the two points linked, are not ready, but this won't impede the service, said Mr. Aldous.

BUS AT 6.10

First "Royal Victorian" bus for Swartz Bay will leave the Victoria depot of Vancouver Island Coach Lines at 6.10 a.m.

"The phone has hardly stopped ringing," said Mr. Aldous, since last Thursday's pre-inaugural run of the Sidney for newsmen and tourist officials.

The Swartz Bay cutoff from the highway at Sandown Park racetrack is not fully paved.

"It should be finished within a week—barring bad weather," Highways Minister Gagliardi reported.

The terminal buildings will be ready in about two weeks. In the meantime ticket offices will be set up in trailers.

Fares for the new ferry are $2 per person and $5 per car each way.

There will be eight trips leaving each terminus daily, starting at 7 a.m.

BODY FOUND IN TRUNK WIDOW OF EX-CONVICT

FILIPINOS WILD WITH JOY

Ike's Welcome Greatest Yet

MANILA (AP)—A joyous, singing, almost uncontrollable mass of Filipinos nearly overwhelmed Eisenhower with an ecstatic welcome today.

This land, to which the United States granted independence only 14 years ago, gave Eisenhower perhaps the greatest tribute he has ever received overseas: An estimated 1,500, 000 or more people roared their acclaim along a flag-decked route, showering Eisenhower with a near blizzard of pastel confetti and even paper boxes.

Sometimes surging out of control, the tide of humanity slowed his parade to a walk as they jammed to within inches of the open car. He rode beside Philippines President Carlos P. Garcia from the airport to downtown Manila, 10 miles.

Acrid fumes from the slow-moving cars brought some tears to Eisenhower's eyes. Filipino and American security agents strained to clear a path in humid 85-degree heat. One over-enthusiastic well-wisher tried to climb on the hood of the automobile before police hustled him away.

The Philippine press secretary, Jose P. Nabile, said police and military officials set the number of welcomers at 3,000, 000-3,500,000 in Manila alone.

Former Citizen—Now Peacemaker

From the moment Eisenhower landed at Manila airport for the first stop of his Asian tour, the Filipinos hailed him as a former resident who had returned as the peace-seeking leader of the free world.

The mass of men, women and children who lined the 10-mile route from the airport frequently pressed to within inches of the open presidential automobile, sometimes stopping it.

The scheduled hour-long procession stretched into a triumphant parade of one hour and 40 minutes. Eisenhower repeatedly acknowledged the acclaim with arms outstretched in the humid weather.

Perspiring freely, Eisenhower looked tired but smiled broadly as he was escorted up the steps of the presidential palace before retiring to his quarters.

Meanwhile it was reported in Tokyo, troops of Japan's new army may be called on to back up police in case violence flares during Eisenhower's visit next week.

A defence board spokesman said a 2,000-man regiment has been placed on alert and a division of 15,000 stationed in Tokyo could be rushed up if the situation warrants.

Vancouver Stocks

VANCOUVER—Closing sales: Craigmont 400 at $5.05, Alberta Distillers VT. 200 at $1.95, Sheep Creek 2,500 at 90, Ainsworth 2,000 at 4c, Trojan 200 at 10c, Vantor 1,000 at 34c, Zellerbach "A" 25 at $19.50.

Firm Pleads Guilty

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Allis-Chalmers Manufacturing Co. today pleaded guilty to federal charges of price-fixing and bid-rigging in the sale of heavy electrical equipment.

Twelve other companies indicted with Allis-Chalmers pleaded innocent.

LONG, LONELY VOYAGE

British Lt.-Col. H. G. Hasler watches the wind fill his Chinese-type sail as he sets out in his tiny craft from Plymouth, Eng., at start of solo trans-Atlantic race to New York. Airliner, 13 Aboard Vanishes Over Alaska

SEATTLE (AP)—A Pacific Northern Airlines four-engine Constellation carrying eight passengers and a crew of five vanished today between Cordova and Anchorage, Alaska.

The big plane, which had discharged upwards of 50 fishermen and cannery workers at Cordova, Alaska, was an extra section which left Seattle at 12.15 a.m. PST (12.15 a.m. PDT).

Weather conditions along the 175-mile last leg from Cordova to Anchorage were reported fairly good with a ceiling of several thousand feet and visibility of more than 15 miles.

The Constellation was last heard over Hinchinbrook Island in the Gulf of Alaska about 10 minutes after taking off from Cordova at 6.16 a.m. PST. It was due in Anchorage about an hour later.

Names of the 13 aboard the propeller-driven Constellation were not immediately available. The airline said the passengers apparently had taken advantage of the extra flight for the fisheries group to make faster connections to Anchorage.

PNA, one of the major lines serving Alaska, said it has operated 29 years without a passenger fatality.

False Claims Charged
NEW YORK (AP)—Manufacturers and promoters of Regimen tablets were accused by a grand jury today of falsely advertising the product as a reducing drug.

Murder Charge Laid by Police

BULLETIN

TORONTO (CP)—Police said today they have issued a warrant charging Leonard Eade with murder in the slaying of 37-year-old Mrs. Marjorie Scott whose body was shipped in a trunk last month from Toronto to Argentina, Nfld.

TORONTO (CP)—A body found crammed into a trunk last week in a Newfoundland railway express office was identified today as that of Mrs. Marjorie E. Scott, blonde widow of a former convict who died in 1958 at New Westminster, B.C.

Police at Kingston, Ont., said the 37-year-old woman had been married to Clement Scott, the former convict, and had been arrested twice herself in Kingston. She had been released each time on probation.

For some time, they said, she had been living intermittently in Toronto and Kingston with another criminal with a long record.

The body of Mrs. Scott, described as a shapely blonde waitress originally from Napanee, Ont., was found in the trunk at Argentina, Nfld., by an express agent. It was sent collect to a Mrs. Williams in Argentina, a United States naval base, about 85 miles west of St. John's.

The trunk had been sent C.O.D. from Toronto. So far, police have no line on the shipper.

The woman was identified only today. Toronto police said the woman was identified by matching the fingerprints from the partially decomposed body with those on RCMP files in Ottawa. She had been sentenced at Whitchy in 1944 to three months in reformatory for theft.

Born in Napanee, near Kingston, she was the former Marjorie Sagar. She came to Toronto from Windsor to work as a waitress, it was reported.

The trunk, shipped from Toronto last month, was opened last Tuesday by Tom Donovan, a CNR express agent. It was sent collect to a Mrs. Williams in Argentina, a United States naval base, about 85 miles west of St. John's.

Cause of the death has not yet been determined, although speculation is she may have died either of poisoning or asphyxiation.

CANADA NOT YET 'SOVEREIGN'

Constitutional Ties Rapped

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker said today it is inconsistent with Canada's sovereignty that Parliament cannot amend the constitution.

He told the Commons that Canada is the only old member of the Commonwealth that must seek an amendment to its Constitution from the British Parliament.

"It isn't because the British Parliament is anxious to retain this power," he said. "It is because Canadians have been unable to agree on a method of amendment that would be generally acceptable."

Mr. Diefenbaker introduced a resolution asking the British Parliament to amend the British North America Act of 1867, requiring all County, District, and Superior Court judges to retire at 75. Supreme Court of Canada judges have had a fixed retirement age since 1927.

The prime minister said the new provision, if passed by the Canadian and British Parliaments, would come into effect March 1, 1961.

"It is a political paradox and inconsistent with Canada's status that we should be required to obtain amendments to our Constitution by an address to the Queen that she will cause amendments to be laid before the Mother of Parliaments at Westminster," he said.

"Up to the present it has been found difficult, if not impossible, to secure the agreement of the provinces to any method of amendment."

All provinces have agreed to the new retirement age for judges, he added.

MPs Facing Long Summer Session

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker plainly indicated today that Parliament will remain in session until the government's full legislative program has been dealt with.

His statement followed the assessment of Opposition Leader Pearson that to complete the scheduled business will take at least until the end of July.

The prime minister killed hopes of a summer adjournment, urged on him by Hazen Argue, CCF House leader, by saying he expects that before the Commons concludes the sittings "as a continuous session," it will have covered the legislative program he outlined.

Municipalities Discuss Share of Income Taxes

Mayor Percy Scourrah of rate has been set for Parks Victoria, backed by several village with B.C. cabinet ap- aldermen, will try to start the prov- ball-tolling Wednesday on his suggestion that a slice of the federal income tax be turned over to municipalities.

He will bring it up in informal discussion at the annual convention of the Association of Vancouver Island Municipalities in Courtenay.

If the convention makes a formal approval of the idea, it will go before the Union of B.C. Municipalities' fall convention.

The Victoria delegation, with Ald. Geoffrey Edgell and Ald. M. H. Mooney as official voting delegates, also will propose two resolutions to the Island conference.

One resolution urges the provincial government to establish separate arbitration boards, headed by judges, for making awards in disputes between police and firemen's unions and civic councils.

The other resolution criticizes installment payments to municipalities of government grants-in-aid and asks that they be made in lump sums early in the year, so that the municipalities do not have to borrow money while waiting for widely-spaced installments.

COWICHAN LAKE—David Larson-Plaskett, of Cowichan Lake died by drowning after he was knocked out in a car accident, coroner Dr. E. C. Hart said Monday after an inquiry.

He was knocked out by two snow tires which crashed through a trunk and rear seat as the car driven by Plaskett veered off the road and over an 80-foot cliff into a stream at Gordon River.

Death was classed as "accidental."

The body was found 20 feet downstream from the car in a small pool.

FARM MARKET REVIVAL MAKING SLOW PROGRESS

DUNCAN—A group of seven stallholders, given three months notice to vacate the Farmers' Market on Govern- ment street about this time one year ago, are making little headway in their efforts to have the stalls rebuilt on the city-operated parking lot on the old agricultural grounds.

"I'd like to see them get together. There's no doubt they'd bring business into town," Ald. J. H. Saunders said Monday when the matter was brought before city council again.

W. R. Barker, secretary of the Cowichan Agricultural Society, wrote council that the society and the Cowichan Farmers' Institute did not wish to incur any expense in rebuilding the stalls.
